FRANCE WOULD FIGHT BESIDE BRITAIN

WARNS ITALY TO KEEP PEACE DANGER OF RUPTURE OVER SANCTIONS LAVAL GIVES STRAIGHT- FORWARD ANSWER

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1904. Received, Nov. 29, 10.05 a.m.)

Paris, Nov. 28.
It is learned that M. Pierre Laval, the Prime Minister of France, at a conference with the Italian Ambassador, Signor Corrucci, to-day answered with straight-forward simplicity the question: "What would France do if England and Italy went to war?"
The Italian Ambassador had made a statement that Italy would consider oil sanctions, that is to say a League embargo on oil exports to Italy, an act of war, or at least a warlike gesture. In view of the fact that the Italian Government has previously announced that it would meet any such acts with force, the French Prime Minister gave Italy warning.
M. Laval warned the Italian Ambassador, an unimpeachable source discloses, that any act on the part of Italy, such as an attack by Italian submarines or aircraft upon a British warship, would be considered a declaration of war against the whole of the League of Nations, including France.

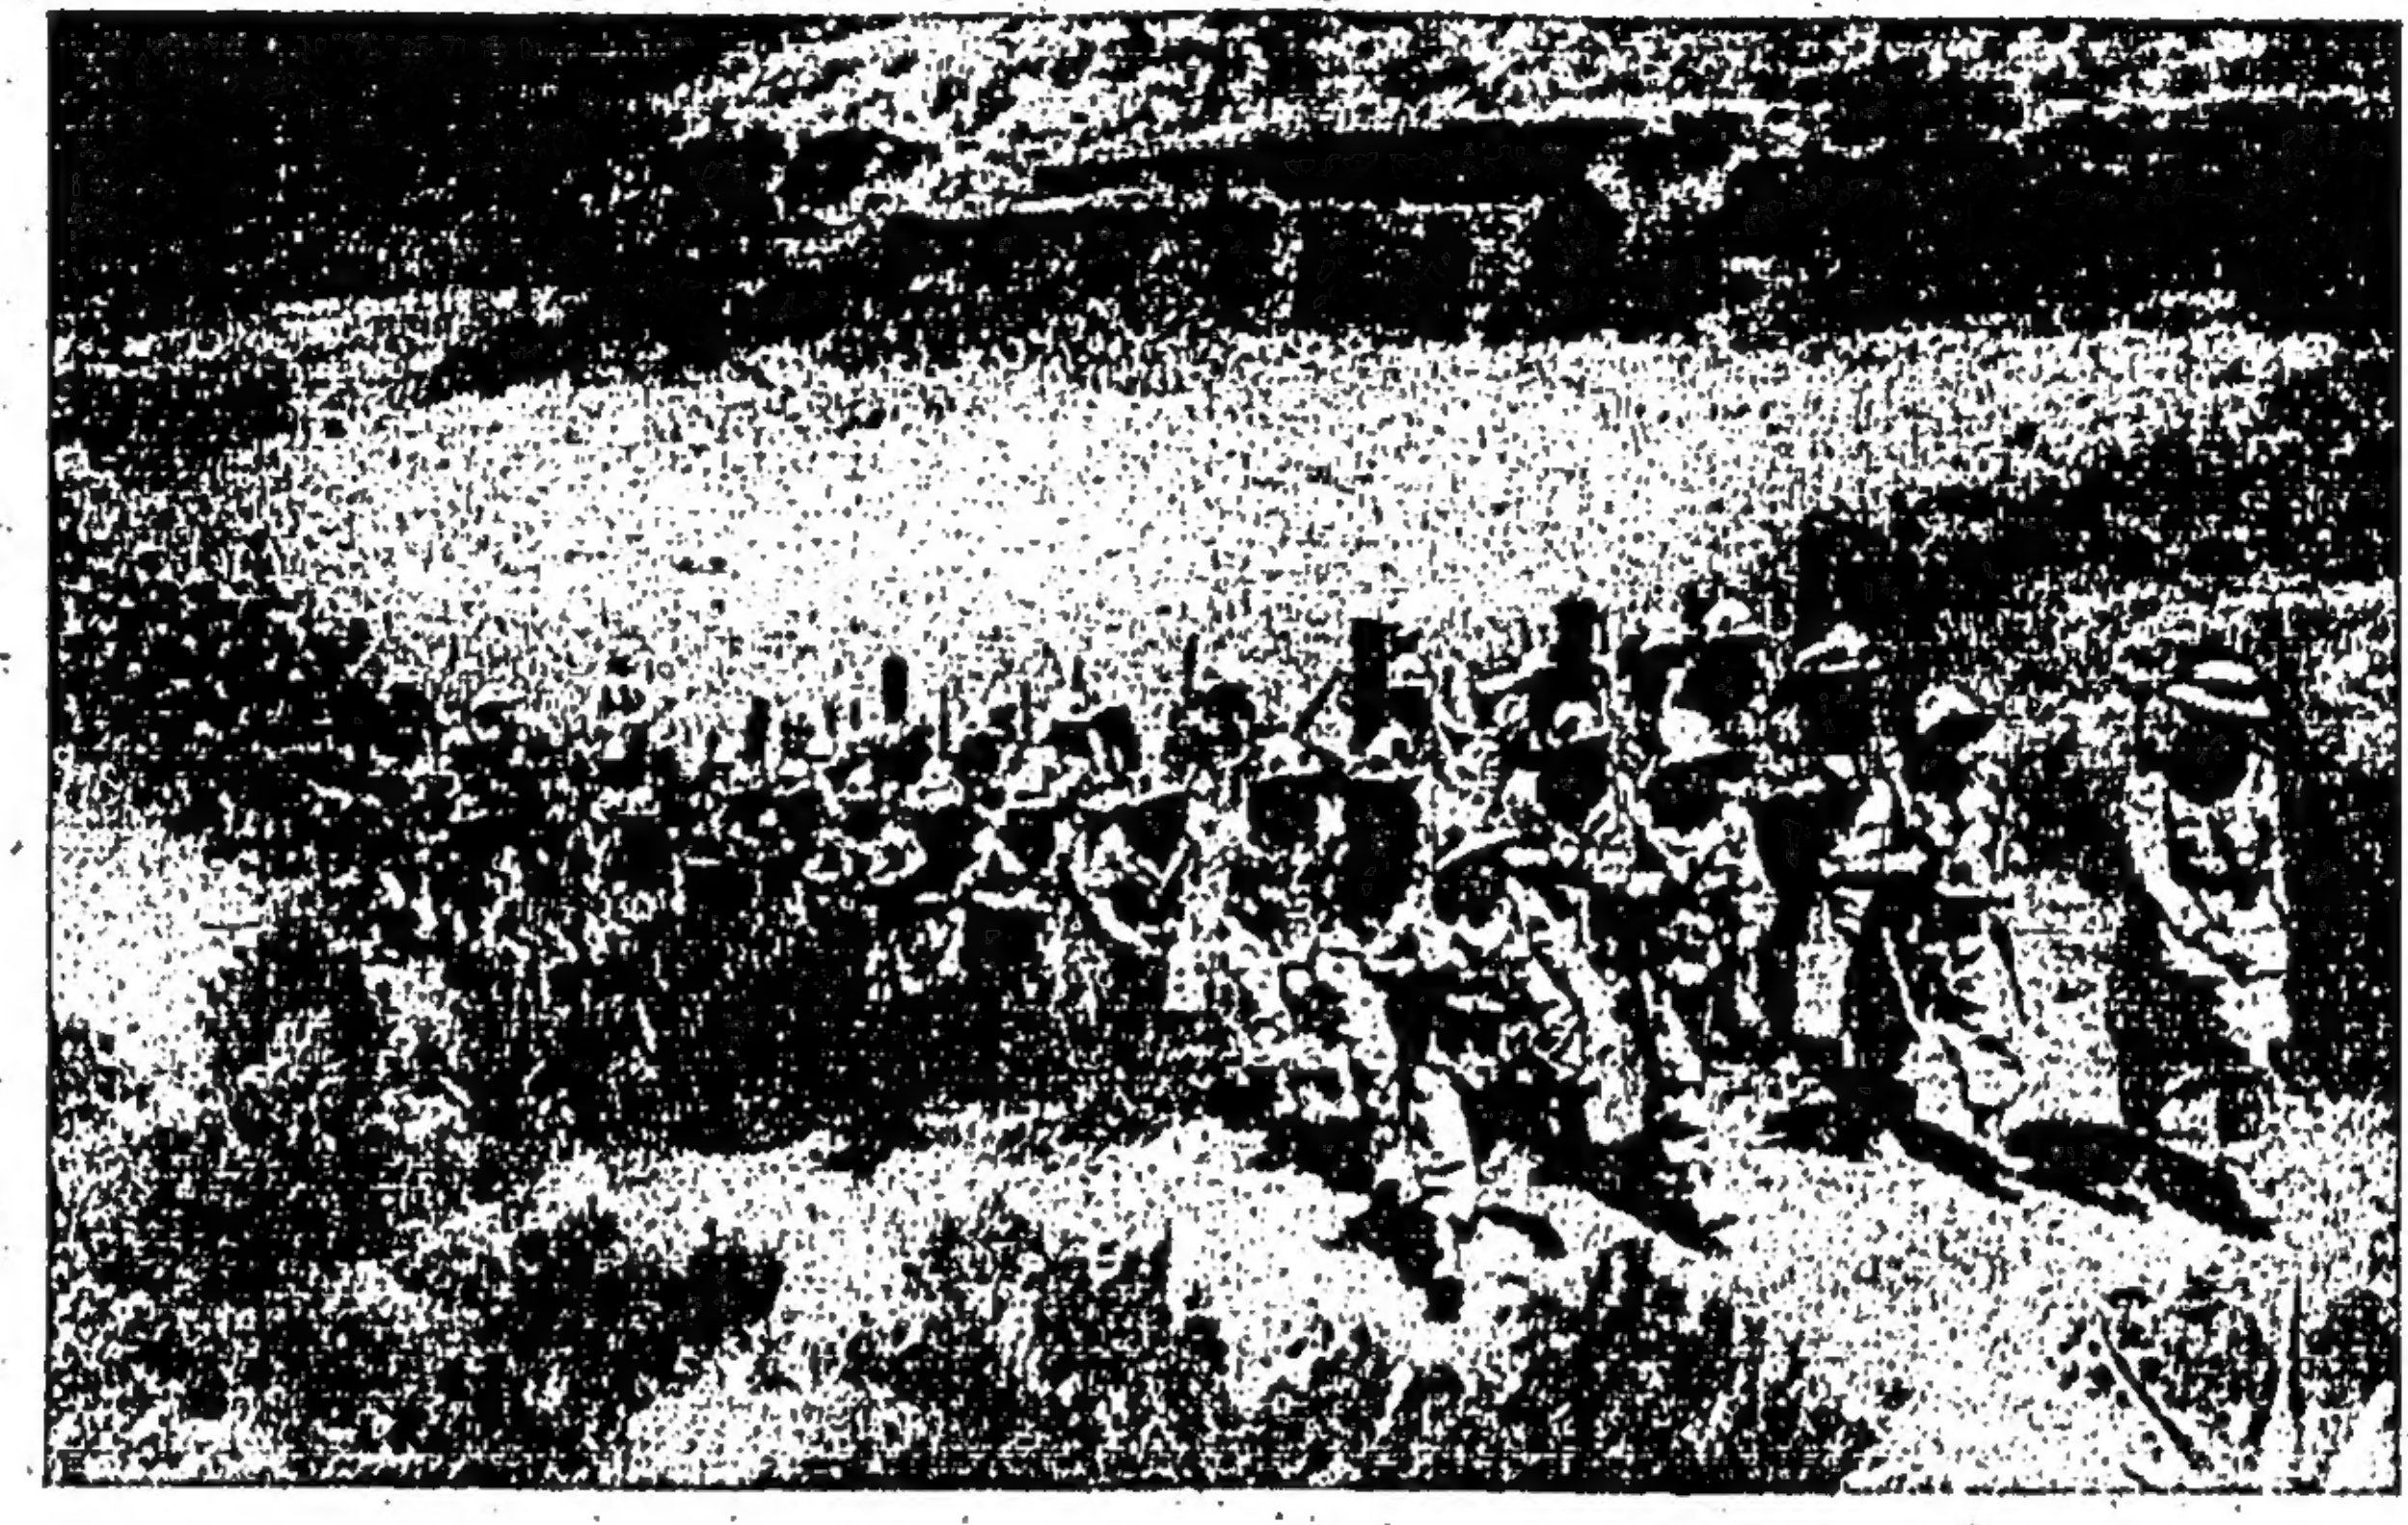

France, said M. Laval, would not stand aside in such a crisis, but would fight side by side with Great Britain.—United Press.

Filipino National Defence
QUEZON OUTLINES NEW SCHEME
COMPULSORY TRAINING
President Manuel Quezon has asked the National Assembly to confer full powers on him as chief executive to carry out immediately plans for Philippine military defences.
He made this request in his first message to the unicameral legislature which he delivered in person. He was accompanied to the legislative hall by the members of the cabinet, including the Vice President, and the members of the supreme court headed by the chief justice.
All were attired in formal dress making a departure from similar appearances of the chief executive under the old regime.
The President outlined his plans for the national defence of the islands, but declared they were too comprehensive and intricate to be discussed in detail in his message. He declared, however, that in brief they contemplate only the mustering of an adequate land force sufficient to insure peace within and to make invasion from without so expensive that it would prove folly on the part of an aggressor nation to attempt it.

PEACE IS OBJECTIVE
"Our objective is peace, permanent peace," President Quezon said. "The establishment within these islands of a force capable of threatening any (Continued on Page 7.)"

CHINA CAN CONTROL CURRENCY
FAMOUS BANKER IN HONGKONG
SIR VICTOR SASSOON
Confidence in the future of China's new silver policy and a belief that she would not find great difficulty in keeping the policy "to the straight" was expressed by Sir Victor Sassoon when he arrived here this morning from Shanghai by the P. and O. liner Corfu.
"I cannot see why she should have any difficulty in maintaining her silver policy. Change of government and other political exigencies I cannot speak on, however. I do think that the political situation is better now than it appears, it is less tense than it has been for some time," said Sir Victor.
"As regards the autonomy movement I think that this should not effect the policy a great deal if it comes to pass since the northern provinces have already stated their intention of leaving the Customs in the hands of Nanking, thereby giving Nanking control of the currency.
"As long as the silver policy is run as a seriously managed currency the government should not have great difficulty in holding it to the straight."
"Sir Leith-Ross was not responsible for China's new policy, he may have given advice, and it may have been very acceptable advice, but he cannot be held responsible," he went on.

CAN'T SEE OBJECTION
"What objection Japan can have to the policy from an economic point of view I cannot see. China will now maintain a low rate of exchange and this will benefit exports at the expense of imports. Japan will benefit from the reduced prices of exports just as other countries will, and will suffer, just as other countries, from the higher price the Chinese must pay for imported goods. All countries will be effected in just the same way, except that Japan may feel less now the exchange is low China will supply what Japan once supplied for her and therefore Japan will be harder hit than countries who never sold China very much.
"Regarding the large loan to China which has been rumored will be arranged in the near future I see no truth in the report. There is no necessity for a loan to China for her to keep her exchange rate stable. The only reason for a loan is so she can refund and consolidate her debts. To do this she would need a loan, but as Japan has lent China money and would be paid back interest which at present she is not receiving, Japan would gain as much as other countries from this, too."
"America, as I see it, will maintain her present silver policy, unless political changes in the country alter the policy. But this policy has little effect upon China now; though should America abandon her policy China might decide to go back on silver, since the reason for her going off it would have been taken away."
Sir Victor will continue on the same ship when she sails at noon to-morrow and will visit his various offices between here and Bombay, returning to Shanghai about March or February.

MANILA AWAITS CLIPPER EXPECTED DURING AFTERNOON
Manila, Nov. 29.
Manila was in holiday mood this morning, anticipating the arrival between 3.30 p.m. and 4 p.m. of the China Clipper, Pan-American Airways trail-blazing passenger and mail plane, flown by Captain G. Musick and crew.
The Government has declared a half-holiday and the whole town is expected to turn out to witness the descent of the giant plane, whose flight over the ocean from Alameda, Cal., is described as opening up a new era in relations between the United States and the Philippines.—Reuter.

(Special to "Telegraph")
Shanghai, Nov. 29.
The fifteen-year-old son of Mr. Ho Shih-cheng, while on his way to school in the French Concession to-day, was seized by two armed men and carried off, helpless under the threat of their guns.
Ho Tsao-shin, the prisoner, had no chance of escaping. The attack came too swiftly.

LEAGUE TO PLAN OIL EMBARGO COMMITTEE MEETS ON DECEMBER 9 SATISFACTORY SANCTIONS
Geneva, Nov. 28.
It is expected that the Committee of Eighteen will meet at Geneva on December 9 when the proposed embargo on oil exports to Italy will be considered.
Two additional states, Uruguay and Lithuania, have indicated their decision to apply full sanctions against Italy.—Reuter.

WORKING WELL
Geneva, Nov. 28.
The sanctions measures banning exports of raw materials to Italy are working satisfactorily, in the opinion of the British Government representative, who had been charged by the League of Nations Committee to study the question.—Reuter Special.

ROME GRATIFIED
Rome, Nov. 28.
A meeting of the Cabinet has been summoned for 11 a.m. on Saturday.
M. Laval's success has been received with considerable satisfaction in official quarters. A prominent Italian said it means "continuity of French policy and will remove fears of devaluation of the franc, with a consequently satisfactory reaction on the lira.—Reuter Special."

SETTING A DATE
London, Nov. 28.
It is reported from Geneva that the Chairman of the Committee of Eighteen, the Portuguese delegate to the League of Nations, Senor Vasconcellos, will in all probability reach a decision to-morrow as to the new date for the meeting of the Committee, convened for to-morrow and later postponed to meet the convenience of the French Premier, M. Laval, who is detained in Paris by French domestic affairs.
Paris messages to-night announce M. Laval's Government received the vote of confidence in the Chamber this afternoon of 345 votes to 225.

The business of the Committee of Eighteen will be to receive a report of the experts on the workings of measures of financial and economic pressure, undertaken by the Covenant enforcing States against Italy, and to consider further recommendation of the Canadian Government, already approved in principle, for the addition of other products including coal, iron and oil to those whose export to Italy is prohibited.—British Wireless.

COUNTER-SANCTIONS
Rome, Nov. 28.
Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw are the only English authors to have escaped Italian "counter-sanctions" in the intellectual field.—Shakespeare because of the Elizabethan and Italian Renaissance, and Shaw because he is "the most brilliant and anti-British of all living British dramatists."
These are amongst the few exceptions which the Minister of Propaganda makes in decreeing that no plays, operas, musical hall turns or symphonies emanating from sanctionist countries may be performed in Italy.—Reuter Special.

LEFT FAILS TO OUST LAVAL CABINET WEATHERS FIRST STORM FRANCE HOPEFUL OF DEFEATING CRISIS

Paris, Nov. 28.
The Government of M. Pierre Laval obtained a vote of confidence, with 345 against 225 in the Chamber's first test of deputies' opinion, according to the lobby report. This means the Chamber will agree to M. Laval's demand that the debate on the Government's finance policy, which in effect is to protect the franc against devaluation, shall take precedence over everything else.

The most stringent precautions have been taken to maintain order during the fateful meeting of the Chamber. Plainclothes police mingled with the crowd and 170 Mobile Guards, with carbines, waited in the vicinity of the Chamber in case of emergency.

The entire Cabinet sat on the Government bench and M. Laval was politely applauded when he announced he was determined not to shirk the debate.

The Prime Minister added, that at a conference of presidents of groups it had been decided to commence the discussion of the complaints regarding Fascist and Nationalist leagues on Tuesday morning. Radicals are agitating for the suppression of these organisations, such as the Croix de Feu, which, they maintain, are planning to undermine the control of the Government and effect a coup d'etat.

M. Laval said they planned to discuss the budget on Tuesday afternoon.

POLITICAL CHESS IN N. CHINA
SUNG URGED TO RECONSIDER
Nanking, Nov. 29.
General Ho Ying-ching, Minister for War, has sent a message to General Sung Chih-yuan urging him to reconsider his decision and to accept the appointment of Pacification Commissioner of Hopei and Charhar immediately.
Yesterday General Sung declined the appointment, saying that since it was virtually impossible to assure the safety of Peking and Tientsin, which was partly his responsibility, he could not undertake to pacify the two provinces.
Some observers believe that General Sung is playing for a wider authority than the suggested appointment would give him and that he is anxious to replace General Shang Chen's troops at Tientsin with his own. It is known, too, that General Sung is under tremendous pressure from the Japanese.

It is feared the present situation cannot long be maintained and that the status of Charhar and Hopei may change within a few days' time.
General Shang Chen and General Han Fu-chu have declined to go to Peking for a conference with General Sung.—Reuter.

BIG GOLD STRIKES IN FRENCH COLONIES

Paris, Nov. 12. Gold deposits some of which are richer than any outside the Transvaal are within the grasp of French prospectors who are slowly charting a huge triangular tract of savage country in hottest, darkest Africa.

The cautious French do not want to call it a gold rush comparable to the booms of California, Australia and Alaska. But they are working with optimistic official support, first to map and then to exploit lucrative deposits of yellow dust in France's vast African possessions.

News of the hopes which France places in her African gold first came to the knowledge of the world early this autumn, when the Ministry of Colonies in a surprise statement announced that preliminary prospecting had been completed and detailed work which must precede modern mining was to be begun.

The area, where prospectors are busy making charts of deposits and where they hope to begin mining soon with the most modern implements that can be used in that part of the world, is a triangular section including most of the Ivory Coast, part of French Guinea and part of the French Niger. There are spots where the ore is extremely rich, and parts where it is mixed with many other elements, but almost everywhere in this area there is some of the precious metal to be found.

Natives Mine Metal
Explorers have known of this gold for many years. In large sections of the vast tracts they traversed they found that the natives had been mining the metal for hundreds, perhaps even a thousand years, yet it was not until the autumn of this year that the time was considered ripe for officially announcing paying claims.

This was not due to indifference or negligence, nor did it have anything to do with lack of knowledge of the real wealth to be found in this African soil. It had to do with roads.

Until now there have been no roads passable enough to transport the gold profitably. Only this year have roads numerous enough and good enough for trucks to pass been completed, and therefore only now can there be talk of profitably mining the gold.

Working quietly in the past few years prospectors advanced almost at the same rate as road builders, with the result that they finished their preliminary mapping at the same time that the roads were completed.

It is true that the lack of modern transportation has never troubled the natives, thousands of whom have lived exclusively on mining their own gold for generations, but the amount of gold that will give a native a livelihood is not enough for a European mining company.

The French were confronted with one serious political problem when they announced the finding of paying gold. Over a wide area the natives depend on the metal for their living, and they would certainly be ruined if modern companies operated mines mechanically in competition with them. And if they were deprived of their livelihood they would make trouble.

Officials of the Ministry of Colonies, therefore, plotted out large districts where the natives would be in the greatest numbers, and ruled that in these parts, thousands of miles in area, no white miners are to penetrate. Thus, while Europe gets its gold, the blacks will still do their small scale mining, and through traders of their own race—mostly rice and cloth merchants of the Dioula tribes—they will continue to live on money they dig out of the ground, as they have always done in the past.

END OF A REGIMENT ANGERS A COLONEL

Lieut.-Colonel Stephen Thomas Banning, late of the Royal Munster Fusiliers, who died at Earl's Court, W., left £31,995. He paid this tribute to his wife: "I wish to thank my dearest wife for all the love and care she has shown me during our long and happy life together."

Later he adds: "Whereas, to the lasting disgrace of the miserable politicians who misgoverned our country at the time our glorious regiment, with its magnificent history and traditions, was disbanded in 1922, the bequest of my collection of medals to the regiment cannot take effect. I leave such collection to my wife."

OF THE FUTURE
ARMAGEDDON WILL BE SUDDEN AFFAIR.WOMEN AND CHILDREN WILL BE THE TARGETS FOR GAS AND BOMB.

Berlin, Nov. 12.

GENERAL Ludendorff, one of Germany's famous war leaders, has just published a work on the war of the future. It is a brochure of 120 pages, entitled "The Total War."

"The total war," he writes, "which is not only a matter for the armed forces but also directly touches the life and soul of every single member of the nations at war, was born from the introduction of general conscription, from the growing numbers of the peoples, and from armaments whose effect constantly grows in destructiveness."

He points out that the idea of total war has been extended since the world war "by the improvement and multiplication of aeroplanes which drop not only bombs of every kind on the inhabitants of a country, but also propaganda material; and by the improvement of and increase in wireless which spreads propaganda among the enemy people."

Nations As Fortresses

In the war of the future, the battlefield, he says, will be the entire country of the nation at war, so that the inhabitants will be in the same position as people shut up in a fortress which is being attacked by an enemy.

"The total war is waged not only against the armed forces," writes General Ludendorff, "but also directly against the people," and he adds, "That is inexorable and absolute reality and every means of war will be put in the service of this reality."

This being so, General Ludendorff holds that the whole policy of the Government in time of peace, should be in preparing people in the fight for life. He sees in Christianity the greatest danger to the proper preparation of the German people for the total war.

For the development of the racial consciousness in Germany required for the total war, he urges the acceptance of a German idea of God, "which is not based on promises regarding a future life that cannot be proved, but on natural science, the soul of the people." To stand up against an enemy for months and years "we require a people which is strong spiritually and bodily."

Woman's Role

He attributes the greatest importance to the spiritual training of the German woman. "The total war is ruthless," he says. "It demands of man and of woman the utmost. It is directed not against the man alone, but also against the woman, who sees her children threatened, her husband in danger."

But the total war, he teaches, must be begun without warning. "It is an error to think that a war must be begun by a declaration of war," he writes, and he adds that it was a misfortune that Germany made a formal declaration of war before marching against Russia and France in 1914.

News Of Lost
Flyer After Eight Years"MAN WHO DROPPED FROM SKY"

Washington, Nov. 15.

Eight years ago an American flyer, Paul Redfern, set out for Rio de Janeiro to beat the long-distance record. Nothing has been heard from him since. Indian tales of a mysterious white man who came from the sky and lived in the interior of Dutch Guiana have been heard from time to time, but were dismissed as native folklore. Now, however, enough evidence has been received to convince the Department of State that the mysterious white visitor of these Indian stories is the lost aviator.

A mission teacher named Melchers forwarded a report through American Consular officials describing facts which appeared worthy examination. The report states:

Treated As Asset

"During December, 1934, I received instructions from the Central Mission at Paramaribo to send someone to the Indians higher up the river to collect samples of handicraft for an exhibition to be held in Holland. I therefore despatched a bush negro, who returned in February, 1935, and stated that while at an Indian village, of which he did not know the name, he was told of a white man who had come out of the sky. Had both his legs broken, and was living in another village only three hours away; but as he was nearly out of food he did not trouble to go and see him."

A little later an Indian named Kapan, from the district visited by the bush negro, appeared in the hospital. Mr. Melchers questioned him, and when he refused to talk threatened to stop his treatment unless he did. The Indian thereupon said that he had seen the white man, who was crippled and living in a village named Platman, on the Palcomer river. Sapakuni, the chief of the village, had helped the white man from the machine, which was wrecked on the savanna, not on a mountain.

Officials believe that the Indians regard the white man as an asset, and so have tried to keep his presence secret. Mr. Melchers stated that the savannas of that region were composed of white sand, so that a rescue plane could land there. Several Air Corps officers stationed in the Canal Zone have already volunteered to make an attempt if they can obtain leave of absence.

If The Sun
Exploded
Or Went ColdWAYS THE WORLD MIGHT END

Ways in which the earth and life upon it may meet their end are discussed by Dr. H. S. Spencer Jones, the Astronomer Royal, in his new book, "Worlds Without End," published this month.

Dr. Spencer Jones discusses two opposite possibilities—that the sun may "explode," burning all life and vegetation from the earth and possibly completely engulfing it; and that, after a long period of nearly steady activity, the sun's heat may quickly fail.

Even on the second supposition, that the anticipated explosion does not take place, Dr. Spencer Jones argues that the earth must have already lived "more than an insignificant fraction of its life." The explosion, if it materialises, Dr. Spencer Jones explains, would be of the type witnessed from time to time by astronomers in the sudden flaring up of what are called "new stars."

The brightness of such stars may increase several millionfold within a few days, and astronomers believe that there is at the same time an enormous expansion in the size of the star. In the case of the sun, he points out, this expansion might well extend far enough for the earth to be completely engulfed.

Every star, he concludes, must on the average, pass through this phase at least once in its history; and further points out that some astronomers believe that the sun is now showing signs that this phase may be approaching. In any case, he believes that the sun has not yet exploded.

Should this happen, there will be little final warning, only a few days, or even hours, of anxious waiting, and then the end.

End Of All Life

"All life," he states, "would become extinct; the oceans would be turned into vapour; trees, forests, cities and everything combustible would be burnt; the sun would rapidly swell and might even consume and swallow up the earth."

"For somewhere about 40 to 50 thousand million years the sun could continue to radiate at a rate not differing very greatly from its present rate. But, after this period, most of the hydrogen will have been converted into heavier elements; the supply of fuel necessary to provide the energy for radiation will be rapidly failing. There will be a relatively rapid fall of temperature on the earth, and life would probably very soon become extinct."

CHINESE ART BRITISH PRESS TRIBUTES

London, Nov. 28. The Chinese Exhibition evokes a chorus of unbounded praise from all papers. Long descriptions, several of which described as only preliminary, the exhibition being further surveyed with copious illustrations. Fashion writers are eagerly seeking new models and rhapsodize over the loveliness of Chinese colours and the subtle difference of tone of Chinese blues, reds and yellows. The Times writes that it is difficult to see how for sheer beauty, form, colour and exquisite workmanship this Exhibition can fail to be the most popular among the series of winter exhibitions held at Burlington House. The Manchester Guardian writes that you may trace Chinese art back as far as you please into the dimness of prehistoric times, and there is still no trace of a primitive style as there is in Europe. The Morning Post paying a tribute to the Chinese Government for the generous loan of so many treasures says, "We Europeans would do well to walk humbly to this exhibition since it reveals a civilisation, which was subtle and refined when we were yet barbarians." The Daily Mail writes that never before on this planet has there been so thorough a survey of Chinese art, which acknowledges no superior. The Royal Academy restaurant has invented a Chinese cocktail described as a cross between a white lady and a Bronx. Cartoonists are eager to plagiarize Chinese models for satirizing topical events.—Reuter.

"Amongst those who have not joined to date are many senior and junior company N.C.O.s: men we want to help us along and I should like to appeal to them to join as early as possible. One hundred per cent. membership is our aim."

"Generally, the civilian membership can now be considered as satisfactory. At the annual dinner several were met for the first time, and it was learned that some previous members of the Branch were holidaying in the United Kingdom.

"At our next meeting I hope to give a comprehensive statement of ex-R.E.'s in the Colony. The Entertainment Committee has been most successful in running the best what drives in the Colony, and also excellent dances. They show a good profit which goes to our Branch Funds and is the only source of income."

A Games Tournament was held earlier in the year and whilst an enjoyable time was spent, the event was not the success it should have been due to the sparse attendance of ex-R.E.'s.

A letter from the President, Lieut.-Gen. Sir George Kirk-Watson, K.C.M.G., was read by the Chairman.

Help for Old R.E.'s It was decided that in future all subscriptions should be made in sterling, or if in local currency, according to the prevailing rate of exchange.

After some discussion, it was finally agreed that, subject to proper safeguards, monetary assistance was to be given to any old R.E. who was a member of the Association or not, and that the sum given should not be more than $5. GREEK DEADLOCK

GEORGE AND MINISTERS CLASH OVER AMNESTIES

Athens, Nov. 28. Two days after his return to the throne of Greece, King George has become involved in a serious clash with his ministers on the question of the amnesty.

His Majesty ordered General Condylis, the Prime Minister, to submit the draft of the general amnesty for his signature. General Condylis has not yet complied, owing to the opposition of his Cabinet, and indeed he has refused to sign the amnesty of M. Voulas and M. Plasteras and other leaders of the revolt of last March in the amnesty list.

A deadlock has been reached. His Majesty is expected to make some move to break it, possibly to-day.—Reuter.

CANTON-HANKOW LINE

MIR R. D. WALKER PAYS VISIT OF INSPECTION

Mr. R. D. Walker, the manager of the British Section of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, returned recently from an inspection tour of the construction work on the nearly completed line between Canton and Hankow.

He declared yesterday that it had been a very interesting trip, and though the administrative and engineering sections of the construction company were entirely Chinese, the organization was excellent and the work was being carried out very well. The line ran through country of singular beauty, especially the portion between Lokchong and Pingheik.

This new railway will be a great boon to those wishing to travel from Canton to Hankow as quickly as possible. Hitherto, the land journey involved three or a half day of transiting, and a half day of waiting at night. Now it is calculated that the direct line will accomplish the transit in 30 hours.

The line had been started some years ago, but construction was suspended owing to financial reasons. The work was resumed in July, 1933, and will be completed by next August. Construction trains will carry passengers until the end of the year, when the railway will be handed over to the Administrative Department. The total length of the line, a single rail track, is 981 miles, of which only 90 miles remains to be completed. All the rolling stock and the rails come from England.

At Hongkong, which is about half way between Canton and Hankow, will be built a modern two-story station of reinforced concrete, with quarters for the staff.

Mr. Walker was accompanied on his tour by Mr. Li Lo-chao, the Managing Director of the Chinese Section of the K. C. R., as far as Pingheik.

Kowloon Innovation

Mr. Walker stated that he was testing an innovation in the way of loudspeakers to direct railway traffic at Kowloon. A microphone had been installed in the Station Master's room, and various loudspeakers at suitable points of the station. They would be invaluable for informing waiting passengers of the arrival and departure of trains, thus saving the official considerable bother.

The trial equipment was loaned by the courtesy of the Victor Record Co., and had proved to be of the greatest benefit during the Double Tenth festival. There was also a probability of the installation being used for advertising and entertainment.

DRIVING IN NEUTRAL

LORRY DRIVER FINED FOR "COASTING" DOWN ROAD

Probably the first case of its kind to come before a Police Magistrate, Wong Hung, driver of lorry No. 2409, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon summoned for driving without due care and caution in Mount Davis Road on November 5, the allegation being that he "coasted" down the decline.

Traffic Sergeant G. G. Clarke, prosecuting, said that about 11 a.m. the lorry was on special duty with the Vice-President of the United States of America when he was in the Colony. There was a concealed entrance to the road leading to the house of the Consul General for America, and the General Officer Commanding was there at the time. When witness got down the drive to the road, he saw defendant's lorry go past the entrance in neutral gear. He calculated the lorry was doing about 25 or 30 miles an hour. The defendant saw him and tried to get his gears in after he had passed, but he failed, and they rattled as the lorry was travelling too fast. The defendant later slowed down and got the gears in and then continued on his way.

The road there was a steep decline all the way down to Felix Villas. Had the G.O.C.'s car come out of the drive and seeing the car, the defendant could not have avoided the car. The driving was also dangerous to the coolies who were at work carrying faggots down the path in Pokfulam Road and going down to the cemetery, because the lorry was doing about 25 or 30 miles an hour. The defendant saw him and tried to get his gears in after he had passed, but he failed, and they rattled as the lorry was travelling too fast. The defendant later slowed down and got the gears in and then continued on his way.

The defendant denied the charge, saying he was not going very fast but was doing about 15 miles an hour. He also said that he was changing from second gear to third and not going in neutral.

Mr. Schofield convicted defendant, and imposed a fine of $20.

the shroffs, but you'd enlist the aid of all your pals.

Under these circumstances, shroffs would soon either away, or become tappers or Government servants, or meet some similar horrid end.

One harsh word from the boss, and immediately the whole staff would apply sanctions.

In the case of newspaper reporters, they could refuse to write the words "Excellency," "Mr.," "Gentlemen," "Ladies," and in reports of speeches would leave every second or third word blank.

Of course, there would be bound to be some controversy regarding the advisability of applying sanctions to the words "beautiful girl," "sad-eyed widow," "noted figure," and "charming couple" but, then, Geneva has led us to expect difficulties of this nature.

The chief advantage of the system is that it could be carried out without risk of offence.

When it is politely explained that we are merely applying sanctions, the object thereof, instead of being angered, will be almost grateful, he will feel that a subtle compliment is being paid to him, and may even show his appreciation by applying sanctions in return.

We are going to start the ball rolling by returning to hand our pay cheque over to the wife this morning. There are definitely prospects in this.

Editor's Note: It is regretted that Mr. Edward Kelly, the well-known writer, will not be able to attend St. Andrew's Ball to-night. Mrs. Kelly telephones that her husband has met with some slight accident, part of the ceiling of his living room apparently having fallen upon him.

that Canada's absence has actually lasted only a few months, during which she continued to sit by a special concession. Even if a country cannot claim a permanent seat as a State of chief industrial importance, this does not, of course, mean its exclusion from the Governing Body. There are eight more Government seats, which are filled by election by the Governments themselves as well as eight employers' and eight workers' seats to which the members are elected in their personal capacities by the employers and workers respectively. Thus, some countries actually receive a three-fold representation on the Governing Body. It is particularly gratifying that Canada has been able to return, since the I.L.O. has recently been making every endeavour to secure better representation for the overseas countries, in view of their growing importance in the economic life of the world.

THE CHATER BEQUESTS

The conditions under which Marble Hall, former residence of Sir Paul Chater, has been handed over to the Admiralty were disclosed in the Legislative Council yesterday, in answer to questions on the point by Mr.
Paterson. The house is made available as a residence for the Admiral for so long as the naval authorities use it as such, and no rent is being charged. Maintenance costs are to be the Admiralty's responsibility, and should the residence at any time cease to be used for the purpose named, it has to be handed back to the Government in good condition. Apparently, the gift is in the nature of a gesture to the Navy, especially in view of the fact that Hongkong appears to be the only naval station in which the Admiral has no official residence. There is apparently no question as to the right of the Government to make over the residence in the manner in which it has, but members of the Legislative Council, as representatives of the public, have some cause for complaint in that they were not in any way consulted in the matter. The permission of the Secretary of State was secured, it is revealed, as far back as 1927; why the Council were not consulted, and why the decision was kept secret for so long—only to be disclosed in response to Press enquiries—it is difficult to understand.
Regarding the Chater collection of pictures and porcelain, the position is anything but satisfactory. The pictures are scattered about in Government House, Government offices and the University, being for all intents and purposes not available for public inspection; whilst the porcelain is stored in strong rooms and hence rendered inaccessible. There can be little doubt that Sir Paul's intention was that these treasures should be made available to the public.
The Government intends to house the collections in the proposed new City Hall, and ultimately in a new museum.
Seemingly, it is proposed to build a museum separate from the City Hall, although this has never been definitely announced.
The Government says there is no prospect, by reason of financial considerations, of the new museum being provided in the near future; but this is equally true of the much-needed City Hall, the scheme for which is now in abeyance. Thus it will be many a long day before the

OIL

It is a Blessing to Mankind
—and a Curse...

THE reek of oil rises
over the world.
He who owns oil rules
the world.

The vast industry of modern road transport runs on oil. Tar is made from it. Newspapers are poured from the presses wet with ink made from oil or carbon black. Houses are painted and proofed against the weather with oil, shoes are cleaned with it, lipstick could hardly be made for the million without it.

Half the ships of the world are fuelled by oil. And coal is passing away as the driving power of railways. Diesel oil is supplanting it. Carbon black, derived from petroleum, has given rubber a wear-resisting quality greater than rubber itself.

Now a fear fills the hearts of men—that oil will be mingled with blood.

Once men fought with spears and lances, or later with guns and rifles, lands, or forests, or ports. To-day, above all, they fight with oil.

NOTES OF THE DAY

POPULAR MAPLE LEAF

Of all the decisions taken by the Governing Body of the International Labour Organisation of the League of Nations at a recent meeting, none was more popular than the election of Canada to a permanent seat, writes a commentator from Geneva. Under the constitution of the Governing Body, eight Government seats are permanently held by the eight countries of chief industrial importance.
The Governing Body itself decides which shall be considered as these States, but any question on the subject goes to the League Council for decision. The criteria were worked out in 1922 on an elaborate accounting system of population, number of factories, wealth, etc., and the eight States chosen were Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, India, Italy and Japan. When the U.S.A. and the Soviet Union joined the I.L.O., it was clear that they had a right to permanent seats, but it was less obvious who should retire. Finally, revised criteria were adopted which gave more weight to population and were thus more favourable to India and Italy. The result was that Canada and Belgium dropped out. Belgium accepted this decision regretfully but loyally, but Canada thought for a time of appealing to the League Council. The retirement of Germany has, however, made another vacant seat, so

Chater collections are made open to general inspection. When the vote in respect of the road to the new Government House—part of the city development plan—came before the Council yesterday, it almost looked as if the scheme was being resumed. But the explanation was that the road had already been completed!
This circumstance, together with the ignoring of the Council in regard to the Marble Hall transfer, provides an illuminating sidelight on local methods of government.

Oil will play an important part in the Italian campaign in Ethiopia. Cut off from the oil supplies of the world, the invaders would be helpless, their fight hopeless.

Once upon a time armies marched on their stomachs.
Now they move on petrol tanks.
Navies burn oil, airplanes are driven on oil. The tanks, armoured cars and transport wagons of the mechanised armies are helpless without oil.

At the moment oil dominates
the world situation.
Probably only one thing prevented Italy from fighting Abyssinia long ago—the lack of oil with which to move her armies. Now that lack, by collective action, may be turned into a famine.

The distribution of oil over the world is uneven. It determines the strategy of the Great Powers. Only two Great Powers have sufficient oil deposits in their territory to be independent of outside sources.

The first is the United States, which controls or owns roughly three-quarters of the world supply, and the other is the Soviet Union, which controls about one-eighth.

The rest is scattered throughout the world, and that is one reason why Britain must have a great navy to control the sea paths along which that oil is brought here.

For to-day, even in peace time,
Britain needs 1,300,000,000 gallons a year, and from her own oil-from-coal schemes she could hardly produce more than one-tenth. The amount we get from British Empire countries is only 71,000,000 gallons.

That is why Britain finds it necessary to control Iraq and Persia, to lend powerful support and real protection to the Dutch East Indies, and to keep the South Atlantic open to Venezuela, the third largest source of oil in the world.

You can see from these figures how vulnerable Britain would be without a navy. You can also see that if Britain and the United States stand together there will not be any great war, as long as they control the seaways.

Japan is short of oil. This makes her envy Russia's vast half-developed Caspian oilfields and covet the Dutch East Indies.
Already it has made her seize Manchukuo. For in Manchukuo there are coal mines with 5,000,000,000 tons of shale oil in them.

Now the overwhelming predominance of the United States in oil is beginning to diminish.
So, indeed, is the world's supply, and very seriously, too. Under present conditions the potential reserve is estimated at 24,000-000,000 barrels. The world is using it at the rate of 1,500,000-000 barrels. So sixteen years may see the finish! No wonder the oil men fight for new fields.

In and out of the headlines to-day flashes the name of Sir Henri Deterding, Dutch-born
British citizen.

Lord Fisher described Deter-ding as "Napoleonic in his audacity and Cromwellian in his thoroughness."

Fisher said that mouthful after Deterding had beaten John D. Rockefeller, until then the heavy-weight, long-distance champion of the oil fighters.

Deterding decided early in life to fight Rockefeller for the oil kingship.

He took the precaution of getting the Paris Rothschilds behind him. Then he went into the United States itself and bought up land and companies right under the nose of Rockefeller and his associates. After that he fought Rockefeller from Mexico to China.

When the oil war was at its height in China, Rockefeller gave away millions of lamps to the Chinese, and on each lamp was inscribed Mei Foo, which is Chinese and means Good Luck.

"That 'phone call for you was asking about a date. I told him yes. Was that all right?"

Then he sold the Chinese his Rockefeller oil to put in the lamps.

Deterding waited until all the lamps were burning brightly and then proceeded to sell Royal Dutch oil much below Rockefeller's price.

When the treaty of peace was signed between the oil fighters it was on the basis of a fifty-fifty agreement and equal monopoly prices in the oil markets.

Now, British oil investments amount to close on £160,000,000.

When and if the League of Nations control the Black International of Oil, then it will control both the sources of war and of peace.

But the great Imperial Powers of the world have so far been able to control the Black International far less than the Soviet Government can control the Red International.

Like the propagandists of the world revolution, the salesmen of oil have far outrun the control of national Governments.

Humanity goes dithering along—electing rulers for parishes which are called nations, while men controlling the keys of life and death stretch their hands untrammelled across
the world.

It is these men—not their countries—who can end the war in Ethiopia, by prohibiting the sale of oil to Italy. Very soon, now, they may do so.

The Very Idea!

THESE SANCTIONS

Let's Start An Embargo On Everything, Says Kelly

By Eddie "Gergas" Kelly

"Prohibiting the sale of files, pliers, torches, jemies, hacksaws and masks to Edward Kelly at the Central Court yesterday, Mr. Schofield, on behalf of the Hongkong Government, commenced sanctions against a notorious burglar who has been endeavouring for the past two months to break into the strong room of the new Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

Interrupted in his work upon the main door by a press representative yesterday, Mr. Kelly paused long enough to grant an interview on the subject of sanctions.

"I've still got enough hack saw blades to last me six months," he said,
"and so long as the Court doesn't place an embargo on hand drills and giglights, I think I'll be able to win through." Mr. Kelly then resumed his task.

Meanwhile, a committee comprising the whole issue of Hongkong Magistrates is meeting at Mac's Snacks counter to-night to consider further sanctions. The difficulty appears to be that, while Mr. Kelly's credit has been adopted at Lane Crawford's, Wing On's, Sincere Coy., and other establishments, the China Esplanade and one or two others refuse to apply sanctions.

WE haven't had reports like this in the local papers yet, but if we thought we could get away with it, there soon would be some.
After all, what's the difference?

We are all in favour of this sanction idea being applied to the Colon. There's a lot of things we'd like to declare sanctions on ourselves.

For instance, a punitive expedition of shroffs, which seeks to rob you of your hard-earned salary, could be met with economic sanctions. Not only would you refuse to give money to

Thanksgiving Day was not officially observed by Americans of the Colony yesterday, but the Consulate staff took a day's holiday and the community entertained at private parties among themselves during the evening. The Consul General, Mr. C. L. Hoover, and his wife attended a private party.

The lot was put up at the upset price of $7,500, and after slow bidding was finally disposed of to Mr. Sul Shing, of No. 83, Battery Street, for $8,000.

Messrs. Woo and Woo were solicitors for the mortgagees.

He concluded with an expression of hope that the next five years would find them working together in happy union.

PARKER PLAYING INSIDE LEFT FOR POLICE

OXFORD TAKEN BY SURPRISE

UNEXPECTED RUGBY DEFEAT

London, Nov. 28.—Oxford University sustained an unexpected reverse to-day when the Varsity rugby match, defeated by St. Andrew's XV. The University were beaten by 25 points to 13.

BADMINTON

SAINTS' FIRST WIN

'B' TEAM BEATS KOWLOON TONG

Two League Games

(By "Veritas").

The most significant point about last night's men's doubles badminton league match between St. Andrew's "B" and Kowloon Tong was that although St. Andrew's scored an easy success in terms of games, winning seven to two, the margin of points separating the teams was only 23.

The encounter produced some particularly keen exchanges. In only two cases did any loving pair fail to win the first game, while in the opening game of the match it was found necessary to "set" at five.

The loss of two games by the Kowloon Tong first came as a slight surprise. A. S. Blum and M. Weill, who were the steady pair in the crucial stages of the match, were 2-20 after the score had constantly fluctuated. The game can be said to have been won by St. Andrew's.

Gray seems to have lost his form and last night again committed an unusual number of errors overhead, while White was somewhat tentative at the net and did not always make the most of his opportunities.

HAPPIEST FEATURE

From the Kowloon Tong viewpoint the happiest feature about the match was the undoubted improvement of P. Leung, who literally carried his partner to victory in their first game and offered gallant resistance in the other two encounters. His angled drop shots from the forecourt were most effective. It was a bad patch that J. M. Pong struck an adequate support, and failed to render any service by St. Andrew's were well served by A. S. Blum and M. Weill and S. A. Broadbridge and C. Angus, who won 21-18.

STARTLING EXPERIMENT FOR SUNDAY

JOHNSTONE DROPPED: NORTH TO PLAY

S. CHINA WITHOUT WONG WING

(By "Veritas").

It is doubtful whether Caroline Hill enclosure will be big enough to hold the crowd which will almost certainly want to watch the important first division "needle" match between South China "A" and the Police on Sunday.

The Police are present leaders of the league, but defeat would see them dropped to the second division. This encounter is going to be their biggest test of the season to date. They have already suffered one reverse and this was at the hands of South China "B". If one could apply strict logic to the prophesying of results it would appear inevitable that the Guardians of the Law must lose this week.

South China are by no means certain of their line-up. Wong Wing will not be in goal and Wong King-leung will deputise. Then the left half berth is not finally apportioned. There is some doubt about Lee Kwok-wai and in the event of his being unable to play, Lau Hin-chai will operate at left half.

As I indicated earlier in the week, Lau Mau is not playing and Tung Kong-pak goes to left back, allowing Ip Pak-wa to take up his usual position at inside left.

STARTLING CHANGES

The Police have made some startling changes. Britain and Johnstone have been dropped to bring in North, former East Lancashire player and Brooks.

The defence remains unaltered with Mellardy in goal and Blackburn and Chris Pile at back.

Up forward Green is moved from inside left to centre-forward, while Stevens retains the inside right berth, with Tommy Pile and Moss on the wings.

The changes appear to be somewhat experimental and a distinct gamble. Of course North must be played in the half back line, but I rather fancy he would be better off in the pivotal position with Parker retaining the left half berth.

Johnstone's loss of form quite clearly demanded some change in the attack, but one would have expected him to be moved up, as he was originally a forward when playing for the Royal Artillery.

But the experiment will be watched with interest and even if one feels advised in apportioning certain positions, one cannot help feeling that they will offer a fine display.

The following teams have been chosen.

South China "A":—Wong King-leung, Wing-chai, Wong King-shun, Lee Kwok-wai, or Lau Hin-chai; Two Kwai-shing, Fung King-cheung, Lee Wai-tong, Ip Pak-wa and Tui Qua-ling.

Police:—Mellardy; Blackburn and C. Pile; Brooks, Gough and North; T. Pile, Stevens, Green, Parker and Moss.

HISTORY TO BE MADE

Kowloon Break Resolution

PLAYING SOCCER ON SUNDAY

(By "Veritas").

Football history is being made in Hongkong this week. After years of steady refusal and adherence to a clearly stated policy, Kowloon are playing a league match on Sunday. In so doing the Club is breaking one of its most cherished traditions.

Strictly speaking the club is acting unconstitutionally. I believe I am right in saying that there is on the Minute Book a resolution to the effect that the club's teams shall never take part in league football on the Sabbath Day.

And they have agreed to play this Sunday without rescinding or amending that resolution. Without taking sides on the moral question of Sunday football, it seems a pity that Kowloon should have to fall in line with a system which the club has strenuously opposed for so many years. It illustrates very clearly that at the present time competitive football in the Colony has become too vast and unwieldy.

The point is that unless Kowloon play South China "B" on Sunday there will be no further opportunity of playing the match until next May!

HO KA-KEUNG TO PLAY?

From this issue, the match promises to be most interesting, by the possible appearance in the South China team of Ho Ka-keung, former Chinese Athletic star who had thrown in his lot with the Caroline Hill Club. It is by no means certain that Ho will be available but he has been included in the possible team to play in two games over the week-end.

Kowloon are making changes, notably in the half back line in which Kemp replaces Stewart at right half and Boyd drops back to left half. Three Knox brothers and two White brothers still constitute the forward line, while the defence will remain as before.

It is hoped that the same team will do duty against the Fusiliers on Saturday and South China on Sunday. South China are also confronted with a strenuous week-end. They have to meet the Recreation to-morrow and they are bound to be tested to the full. The Portuguese are not anticipating any changes from the team which last week drew with the Athletics.

SEVERAL CLUB CHANGES

Sydney Strange has decided to take no further risks with his bad leg and will not play for the Club against the R. A. to-morrow. Hill goes to left back while Sykes is retained at right back.

Skinner is away at Camp and Milne, a second division player, comes in at right half, with Forrow, and Gilchrist completing the intermediate line.

Drown re-appears in the attack which is being led by Elliott. Drown will perform at inside right and Ernest Strang takes up his old time position at inside left as partner to Blackford.

In making these positional changes I think the Club have acted wisely. Elliott, unless memory fails me, was a centre-forward in Kent. League football before coming this way, and Strang is clearly more effective as an inside man. I expect the Club to win comfortably.

Forrow, Club centre-half, who appears to be destined to make a name for himself in local football.

HISTORY OF THE ST. ANDREW'S STAKES

HOW TO-MORROW'S BIG RACE CAME INTO BEING

BRILLIANT SUCCESS OF THE DUNBAR STABLE

(By "Captain Foster")

It was after the last successful Gymkhana held in November 1922 that the Stewards of the Hongkong Club decided to stage another "Extra Meet" to be known as the St. Andrew's Meeting and this was held on December 2. The main event, of course, was the St. Andrew's Stakes over the Derby distance and to further the interest, the late Hon. Mr. A. G. Stephen, who was then the President of the St. Andrew's Society, taipan of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation and a keen racing owner himself, kindly donated a handsome silver cup to the winner. The first classic event was won by Mr. A. M. L. Soares's Spotted Sand and was ridden by his son Mr. F. M. L. Soares.

Since then it has been an annual classic event and a race which every owner was proud and every keen to win. I sincerely trust that it will not be out of place to append below a list of the successful owners:—

| Owner | Pony | Ridden by | Time |
|----------------------------|--------------|---------------------|--------|
| 1922 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1923 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1924 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1925 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1926 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1927 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1928 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1929 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1931 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1932 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1933 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |
| 1934 Mr. A. M. L. Soares's | Spotted Sand | Mr. F. M. L. Soares | 2:21.8 |

I hear that Sir Victor Sassoon will be here in time for the Meeting and although his colours will be represented by Lamborg, his prospects are not very bright. However, when his Boxing Eve won the St. Andrew's Stakes in 1928, the Bay gelding was carrying 168 lbs. and I am sure it will be a source of satisfaction to Sir Victor that his old great warrior is still doing his stuff and is much fancied for the Comrie Handicap "D" class (First Section) over five furlongs, which distance is to Boxing Eve's liking.

DUNBAR SUCCESSES

It will be observed that Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar have five St. Andrew's Cups in their collection of racing trophies and I hope their luck will continue to-morrow so as to establish a sequence of half-a-dozen successful outings. In 1925 Mr. Dunbar was racing on joint account with Mr. Bill Stanton and their pony Wimmera (Mr. Brodie) was third in the St. Andrew's Stakes. After that Mr. Dunbar started a string of his own and it was in 1928 that his great Bay (winner of the Hongkong St. Leger) succumbed to Boxing Eve by half-a-length after an exciting race.

Mrs. Dunbar tried her luck with Hinawatha in 1929 who finished behind an One Third and Christmas Chimes, but in the following year she registered her first win with Sitting Bull beating Mr. Dynasty's Nationalist II by half a length.

There is no denying that since the inception, the field had always been a class one and whether it was the wish of the St. Andrew's Society, I really do not know, but the conditions of St. Andrew's Stakes to be run on a morning have been allowed for an open race to a handicap event and this I presume, is to give the small owners a chance of winning the Cup.

To-night's Badminton Programme

THREE MIXED DOUBLES

To-night's mixed doubles programme in the badminton league is confined to three matches, all promising to result in keen encounters.

Recreation "B" entertain St. John's and the Portuguese ought to win, while Taihook are at home to Kowloon Tong, a match in which anything may happen.

Kowloon Tong will be at full strength with the following team: S. A. Gray and Miss Allison Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. White, P. Leung and Miss M. Bryson.

Chinese Recreation Club ought to take the points from "Sailors" and "Squidlers" Home, especially in view of their fine showing last week.

The programme is:—
Recreation "B" v. St. John's
Taihook v. Kowloon Tong
S. & S. Home v. Chinese R.C.

One Hundred Jockeys On Strike

Rangoon, Nov. 2.

Nearly 100 race course jockeys went on strike on Saturday as a protest against the action taken by the Rangoon Turf Club in suspending jockeys Aung Bala and Shwe Oh, and also against the engagement of two Australian jockeys Messrs. Len Lott and Dave Smith by the Rangoon Turf Club.

A meeting was held at the Dharmayon near Bazaar by Circus Street on Saturday night and the jockeys decided not to ride unless their grievances were redressed.

On Saturday morning the Stewards of the Turf Club held a special meeting and it was decided not to postpone the racing under any circumstances.

About 30 jockeys including stable boys, apprentices volunteered to ride. As a result they were given protection in the office of the Rangoon Turf Club, where they were provided with breakfast. The leading jockeys Ba Yin Gyal, Ba Itoon, Ba Yee, Kyaw Hla II, Oo Tha were not among the strikers.

Another meeting was held by the strikers on Saturday. U. So Nyun and U. Tun Yin made a representation on their behalf before the Stewards and the jockeys decided to be a party to the problem. The leading jockeys Ba Yin Gyal, Ba Itoon, Ba Yee, Kyaw Hla II, Oo Tha were not among the strikers.

U. So Nyun and U. Tun Yin explained the grievances of the jockeys and after an interview lasting over an hour, the Stewards decided to be a party to the problem. The leading jockeys Ba Yin Gyal, Ba Itoon, Ba Yee, Kyaw Hla II, Oo Tha were not among the strikers.

Prospects For To-morrow's Race Meeting

FINE FIELDS, KEEN FINISHES AND GOOD SPORT GUARANTEED

(By "CAPTAIN FOSTER")

The opening event in to-morrow's race card is the Ewo Handicap (Unofficial) over a mile and with due respect to the official Handicapper's shrewd judgment in allotting the poundage, it would undoubtedly interest members of the betting public to know on what book of form has he framed his distance handicap, for both Kung and Bottle have been given 150 yards start.

The race is to be ridden by members of the staff of Messrs. Jardine Matheson and Co. Ltd., and the Jardine Engineering Corporation Ltd. and without prejudice, some of the jockeys are an unknown lot. However, the race is sure to provide a lot of fun and amusement as in past years and from the list of entries before me, I can see how the champion jockey on Lockley Hall can fall to get a place.

Mr. Butler will be on Diogenes and should be well up if he knows how to nurse the pony. Mr. Newbigging, who is one of the taipans of the Franchet House, will steer The Judge and Mr. Abraham and it may be worth noting that this Sub. was second in the Valley Stakes and first in the Mongolian Stakes. I think The Chetah has a very good chance provided Mr. Newbigging knows the art of nursing a "small heart" pony. These three are on the scratch line and one of them should win.

We should see a good race in the Orloff Handicap, in fact, all other events of the afternoon will be keenly contested and racing goers are assured of a good day's sport with plenty of thrills and handsome dividends. The Stewards can be congratulated upon such a fine programme and spotting the winners is going to be a very pleasant problem. Punters are reminded of the fact that to-morrow is the Thirtieth Extra Race Meeting and should be careful with number 13.

The Orloff Handicap over a distance from the two Mile Post, once round and in, for "C" class ponies will draw at least over six starters. I am inclined to believe that Wadebridge will not accept as the Lady owner will reserve him for the Hongkong Autumn Sub-Griffins Champions to be run on December 14 as he is sure to win the classic.

If Jungio Jim does not start here, he will surely weigh out for the St. Andrew's Stakes and is set to carry only 140 lbs. Jungio Jim is in fine fettle and last Sunday morning he moved well over 14 miles in 3.45 finishing the last quarter in 36 seconds and the last mile was done in 2.13.5th. The stable companion Blistro galloped the same distance in 2.47.16th and his last mile in 2.10.3th was better than that of Jungio Jim who has to give Blistro 10 lbs to-morrow.

MR. ROZA'S CHOICE
Of Mr. Li Tso Fong's string, Mr. G. da Roza has the choice to take out either Great Hall, High Honour or Victoria Hall and I am told that owing to the consistency of Great Hall's performances he has decided to ride him and will give the mount

R. Abbit Hits Out: Cricket League Management Criticised

CLOSE OF PLAY TIME BLUNDER

Present Arrangement Is Ridiculous

(By R. Abbit)

Last Tuesday, I think, I said a few words on the question of the time for drawing stumps in League Cricket. I have since verified the position and the result leaves me stricken with wrath and amazement. The times proposed for drawing this season are so ridiculous that it is amazing that they could ever have been carried even at a meeting of the Hongkong Cricket League.

Some two or three years ago a certain modicum of intelligence was shown in putting back the time of drawing so that the matches might be finished in semi-darkness. I print the two times for reference.

OFFICIAL TIME OF DRAWING

| | 1934-35 | 1935-36 |
|----------------|---------|---------|
| October | 6.05 | 6.15 |
| November | 5.50 | 6.00 |
| December | 5.35 | 5.45 |
| January | 5.50 | 6.00 |
| February | 6.05 | 6.15 |
| March | 6.05 | 6.15 |
| April | 6.05 | 6.15 |

Now I will leave October and April out of it. March, too, if you like. But I maintain that the rest of the times last season are put to the limit and that this year's times are sheer idiocy, except possibly on the K.C.C. and King's Park Grounds. I assume, of course, that the drawing time must be constant for the Colony, which, if admitted, means that the earliest hour anywhere must be chosen. I shall be very surprised if anyone who really does know anything of cricket does not agree with me. By way of example I will quote two of last Saturday's games and ask the players of H.K.C.C., K.C.C., Army and I.R.C. what they think. The new Official hour of closing the games should have been six o'clock. The Army-I.R.C. game finished at 5.55 p.m., and I heard bitter complaints of the light. The Club game finished 5.45 p.m., and I should be interested to know whether any of the players—the fieldsmen perhaps more than the batsmen—really think that cricket could have been reasonably played for another quarter of an hour.

ANOTHER GROUSE

As I have said, I am no supporter of the movement to do away with the League, but if it is going to be managed by a body that makes a mess of things as has been done for the last two years, then I say, ditch it, and play non-League games where the two captains arrange everything that is not provided for in the Laws of Cricket. To take another point—fixtures. I have mentioned this many times before, but I think the mess-up has been outstanding in the last two seasons. When did the K.C.C. get their fixture cards last season? Have members of the H.K.C.C. got their fixture cards this season? They may have by the time these lines appear in print—but I have not got mine when writing, and I am speaking here as a member.

Do not let it be thought that I am slingink ink—or mud—at the Secretaries. I am not. It is marvellous what they do at this meeting—the only one of the year. But the meeting is held too late, and the executive members of it should arrange preliminary meetings of Secretaries, so that the whole fixture lists can be clinched at the meeting itself. By this method even the Interport should not present any very great difficulties. It may be taken as a broad position that no League games can be fixed before November 7 if the match is in Shanghai, or November 21 if it is in Hongkong. Before those dates only non-League games should be fixed. I suppose I shall be accused of starting a foolish press attack—or of stupid criticism of cricketers who know more than I do about the game. Actually I am writing as I do because I think that the present method of running the League is doing a lot of harm to cricket. I attack no individual. The decisions of the League Body are not those of individuals but of an amorphous conglomerate of people whose zeal I think is apt to outrun their knowledge of the game at times. It is no service to Cricket itself to write smooth things when one is honestly convinced that the game in the Colony is being adversely affected. I think that the management of the H.K. Cricket League need to set their house in order—and I say so very frankly. Let me stress that this is in no way an attack on any individual. If either the President or the Hon. Secretary agree with the new hours of drawing I'll stand them a drink. On the contrary, I am actuated by the feeling that it is the catch vote of an uneducated and uneducated people, and that is why I have written as I have.

One final word. I know perfectly well that the rest of rule 15 provides for the umpires to decide that light is unfit for play and stop the game. All I can say is that I have played cricket 20 years here and have never seen an appeal against the light in a League game (or in a non-League game that I can remember) all the time. Nor can I envisage the sudden appearance of a race of super-umpires who will dare to stop a game when an exciting finish is in being.

TO-MORROW'S GAMES

Well, after all that perhaps we had better get down to facts. I still have no cards from several teams but hope to receive them as soon as they are ready. To-morrow there are two League games in the Senior Division. The most keenly contested one will, I think, be that between the K.C.C. and the Army on the K.C.C. ground. The Army are fielding the same side from Lay. Teddy Fincher too is due for a big score about now. On the whole I rather expect to see a draw, and I shall hope to give some account of the game on Tuesday next.

The other game, at King's Park, is between the Navy and the Club, and should normally have been regarded as a good thing for the Club. It depends, however, on what sort of a team they turn out, as the Navy are very dogged fighters and are, in spots, apt to make up for a certain deficiency in polish by a grim determination to get runs. I have heard that the Club may not be at full strength, and if this is so, the game may be very even, especially if Brannwell is playing and gets going.

The I.R.C. and Civil Service are not playing and the only other game of which I am aware is that between the H.K.C.C. II and Navy II. I rather imagine that for a time the Navy side after to-morrow will be rather changed about in its personnel. Space once more forces me to hold over my notes re the Clubs.

The Kowloon Indians Tennis Club, holders of the Marnak Hockey Championship, are to make up the field, play on the Marine Ground at 4.15 p.m. to-morrow when the civilian side will be represented by the following eleven:

Ramzan; Karnall Singh (capt) and Kishan Singh; J. Noronha, Tara Singh and Pereira; G. Noronha, A. Khan, Awtar Singh, Pinto and Souza.

TO-MORROW'S RACING PROGRAMME

on Victoria Hall to Mr. P.H. Great Hall ran a good race when he was second to Racing Boy in the Kent Handicap (Second Section) over 1 1/4 miles and to-morrow he is set to carry only 156 lbs. He is in good condition and is worth backing.

Harvest View's last outing was in the Hongkong St. Leger which was out of his distance but in the Hongkong Griffins Cup over 1 1/4 miles run on November 2, it was only due to Mr. Frost's hard riding on Pontiac Bay that Harvest View lost by half a length. Harvest View is set to carry 168 lbs and no doubt he will give a good account of himself. Monoplane is nicely in at 156 lbs and the distance is to his liking. Ythan is very low at 140 lbs and last Sunday he covered Six Furlongs in 1.37.3/5th which was not a bad performance for a Griffins of this year but he is worth $5—each way.

COMRIE HANDICAP

The Comrie Handicap for "D" Class Ponies over five Furlongs has been sub-divided into two sections at the discretion of the handicapper and there are 15 good sprinters in the first section. The race is very open. Flybnight after his last performance holds the post of honour with 108 lbs and then comes the great old warrior, Racing Boy with 154 lbs. Festival Eve who won last time out has to carry 3 lbs more and Belmont Star who won the Suffolk Handicap over Six Furlongs has to shoulder 111 lbs extra. It is rumoured that Mr. Froulx is taking out Festival Eve and I certainly like his chances. Philanderer is nicely in at only 140 lbs but so far has not a good sign. Heart's Glory will be under Mr. Hoza and this pony had had luck to lose the Talpo Handicap. I hear that Mr. Wong will take out Wombly Star and will claim five lbs allowance. West Parade does not like racing. The main feature of short events is to draw a good position and get away quickly at the release of the barrier.

ST. ANDREW'S STAKES

With the elimination of "A" Class Ponies coupled with King's Jubilee and Rose Queen who were winners of St. George's Plate, the main event of the St. Andrew's Stakes have attracted 12 entries and the race is very open. It is strange to say that no Scotch owner has yet figured among the list of winners since the introduction of this classic event and it is amusing that there is no representative to-morrow.

However, there are a few stayers in the list and it is with much regret that Sadko has not been entered owing to the fact that the pony went lame last week. The absence of Sadko is responsible for Bright View and underhand from retired quarters that both will accept. It will be remembered that Bright View ran second to Hydroplane in the Hongkong Derby last year and the going was very heavy. The said pony did a useful mile gallop last week in 2.05 coming home the last quarter in 29.3/5th seconds and the connections are confident that he will be placed, if not win.

Hetman made his first public appearance on the Shanghai courses in 1928 and prior to winning a long distance in Hongkong, he was not considered a stayer; but when he won the Commonwealth Handicap (1 1/4 Miles) on March 20, 1932 beating such stalwarts as Sitting Bull and Sadko, he certainly did spring a surprise to the rail critics. Hetman is getting on in years and the youngsters will have to be at their best to beat him.

MR. FROST UNDECIDED

I doubt King's Fancy will accept as he is a sprinter and the presence of Lemberg is to make up the field. If wet, Pride of Taingtau will make the field run for their money. Mr. Dunbar will be represented by either Mistake Bay or Pontiac Bay and both of them are set to carry weight for inches.

So far, Mr. Frost has not decided which one he is going to ride. Pontiac Bay requires no further introduction after his recent running in the Hongkong St. Leger at the last Meeting and Mistake Bay is to my estimation a stayer as she was fourth in the Hongkong Derby. She was late in coming to form and has improved 100% since her return from the North. Last Sunday the two candidates galloped one and a quarter miles in 2.45.2/5th and came home in 30 seconds—finishing strong, and the last half-mile was covered in 1.02.

Ribble has at last recovered his jockey Mr. P. Botelho who has been booked to ride him in the main event. It may be of interest to know that their combination last year gave us our late Chairman, Mr. C. G. Mackie and Mr. Grayburn, two wins, four seconds and a couple of thirds, and Ribble ran a wonderful race in the 1934 Hongkong St. Leger when he succeeded to Soldier of Britain but nevertheless had the satisfaction in trouncing Gladiator, Soldier of China, King's Warden and others.

During the week Ribble gave a

Angus (St. Andrew's) beat Gray and White 21-18; beat Leung and Pong 21-10; beat Wong and Chan 21-10.

Three Games Against Recreio

F. H. Kwok and G. A. Smith, St. John's No. 1 couple were again in splendid form last night when they won all three games against the Recreio "B". But they could not avert the defeat of the visitors by six games to three. The Rev. Bennett was unable to turn out for St. John's and G. Ladd substituted. But he and Tyson were somewhat outplayed and could only aggregate 17 points.

Recreio fielded a much stronger side than that which they so ignominiously defeated by the Club's "A" team this week. Barros and Bernie Gosano re-appeared in the team, thus ensuring success. Nevertheless the Recreio did not have things their own way and in addition to conceding three games to Kwok and Smith were made to "set" one game against Koh and Norman Smith.

Scores:—H. Barros and A. E. Xavier (Recreio "B") lost to F. H. Kwok and G. A. Smith 10-21; beat Roland Koh and Norman Smith 21-10; beat H. C. Tyson and G. Ladd 21-3. B. Gosano and N. Beltrao (Recreio "B") lost to Kwok and Smith 8-21; beat Koh and Smith 24-23; beat Tyson and Ladd 21-4. F. J. Remedios and A. A. Basto (Recreio "B") lost to Kwok and Smith 5-21; beat Koh and Smith 21-17; beat Tyson and Ladd 21-10.

SERIAL STORY

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XXI

Bill and Donna stood facing each other in the warm, cheery sitting room that smelled of woodfire and dried lavender and the faint odour of drugs drifting in from Grandfather Siddal's room. Through the double doors Minnie could be seen setting the table for supper.

Donna laughed nervously, pulled off the snow-covered hat, removed her coat and shook it, then crossed to the fireplace to warm her stiff, chilled hands.

"If she lies I'll know that damnable letter is true," Bill thought. "But she won't lie. There is no reason why she should. Anonymous letters are always vile untruths."

"I'm late," Donna said. "The drifts are something awful for such a what's the matter, Bill? Noticing for the first time his curious pallor and tight lips, she went on, 'Is Grandfather worse?'"

"I don't know," she said. "She turned her back so that he could not see her face as she spoke. I stayed longer than I intended."

"Oh, you went to the Adamses?" "Of course," she lifted her hat and flicked it with her forefinger. "I told you I was going there."

"I know, but when you stayed so long I thought perhaps you had changed your mind." His voice was harsh, as cold as the air outside.

"No, I'm sorry if you were worried. You said you didn't mind my going."

"I didn't," his fist clenched and unclenched in an effort at self-control. "Thought maybe you might have gone to town."

"No. Why should I go to town?" "No reason," she said. "I know."

"Supper!" Minnie announced. "I'll change my shoes."

Donna said hastily, "They're wet." Bill looked at her feet. The shoes were sodden. "Why didn't you use the robot?"

"I did, but I had to get out—there's a knock in the car and I—"

His laugh rasped. "And you got out to see what caused it? Funny thing for you to do in this weather when you can't tell one piece of machinery from another."

"Confound it," he said. Her lips parted but, noticing Minnie's stare of curiosity, she left the room. Her heart pounded with agonizing intensity as she climbed the stairs.

"He can't know—not so soon! Unless Mrs. Planter telephoned him."

"I don't know," she said. Mrs. Planter who saw us. Bill wouldn't listen to anything she said. Perhaps I should have told him I went to town. Maybe he telephoned the Adamses. Suppose he phoned! Oh God!

The room reeled about her and waves of nausea rose in her throat. She braced herself against the dresser with the realization of her folly. The mesh was tightening with every step.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"Call of the Wild," 20th Century's colourful film version of Jack London's immortal story of the Yukon Gold Rush, comes to the King's Theatre next Sunday. A location unit headed by Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Jack Oakie faced danger and starvation in subzero Mount Maker, Washington, to film this Darryl Zanuck production. Gable and Oakie are seen as Thornton and Shorty, two buddies seeking gold in Alaska. They rescue beautiful Claire Blake from wolves and learn that her husband has been lost in the Arctic wastelands. She possesses details regarding a rich "lost claim" and realizing that she is helpless single-handed the girl casts her lot with Thornton and Shorty. After a perilous journey the trio locate the strike, finding it unbelievably rich. Thornton and Claire have fallen hopelessly in love when Thornton's dog Buck finds Claire's husband. Thornton releases Claire and sends the couple off to file claim on the property. Others in the cast are Frank Conroy, Reginald Owen, Sidney Toler and Katherine de Mille. William Wellman directed the production from a script by Gene Fowler and Leonard Praskins. Charles Rosher is credited with the magnificent photographic effects. "Call of the Wild" is presented by Joseph M. Schenck and released through United Artists.

"Annapolis Farewell"

The fair sex plays a small part in the daily life of the United States Naval Academy was the observation made by the cast during the production of "Annapolis," Paramount's dramatic pictorial narrative, featuring Sir Guy Standing, Rosalind Keith, Richard Cromwell and Tom Brown, opening to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. "In Annapolis Farewell," the graphic story of life in the Academy, women play a small part. There is only one girl in the film, portrayed by Rosalind Keith. The only time she comes into the picture is when she visits Annapolis with her chaplain, Dorothy Vaughan to attend an academy dance. In this dance scene hundreds of girls are seen briefly. Rosalind is the sweetheart of Richard Cromwell in the story. Tom Brown tries to steal the girl from Richard only because he wants to take her to the hop. Even Sir Guy Standing, who has the leading role, the part of a retired she look. Every act of hers seemed to lead to conviction. Even her shoes were evidence against her, proof she had waded through snow when there had been no necessity.

How hard Bill's face was! Like granite. If he found out about this lie and reacted so bitterly what would he do when he learned their whole married life had been a lie?

When she descended the stairs Bill and Miss Perkins were already at the table. Bill did not rise and he served Donna in silence. The nurse, inclined to be loquacious at meal time, found it impossible to keep up a conversation, with Bill glowering at the head of the table and Donna obviously ill at ease.

The anonymous letter burned in Bill's pocket. He was torn between a desire to completely ignore it and the suspicion that it held too much truth for his happiness. If only Madeline had not lied! Where had she been if not in town? And why had she decided going there unless she had gone for some reason she did not want him to know?

"No desert, Minnie," Bill said, shoving back his chair.

Without another word he left the dining room. In fur cap, coat and high rubber boots he strode out into the storm, taking a grim satisfaction in the discomfort of trudging through drifts that made him stumble. Battling with the tearing wind, pitting his strength against the elements gave him courage to face something he knew might change the course of his life.

But there must be some proof against his wife besides the vicious words of the unknown letter writer and the lie her lips had uttered. Even if he found out that the man mentioned in the letter was in Lebanon he would not accuse Madeline. Even if he learned that she had met this man he would not believe her unfaithful. She couldn't be. Not Madeline!

There must be some explanation of what had happened but he lacked the courage to ask for it. He had intended to show Donna the letter and speak at the whole thing, giving it the consideration such scruples deserved, but the lie she had told made that impossible. With the suspicion growing stronger every moment that what the letter said was true, he could not hand it to Donna and say, "Isn't this a joke? As if such a thing would influence me!"

He walked on, trying to convince himself that the whole affair should be dismissed and forgotten, trying to cling to his faith in the woman he loved more than anything else in life. But at the end of an hour the doubt still lingered and he was no nearer a decision than before.

That hour was as miserable for Donna. She went with Miss Perkins to Grandfather Siddal's room and sat there while the nurse gave the old man his supper. She talked casually but all the time her thoughts were with her husband, wondering where he had gone and what had caused his strange manner.

Later the nurse confirmed her fears. When Grandfather dozed the two women returned to the living room. Then Miss Perkins said, "Your husband was terribly worried. After he telephoned your friend and found that you hadn't been there his face was as white as a sheet."

"I should have phoned him," Donna stammered, wondering if the other suspected that she had not told Bill the truth. "When I was delayed I—I intended to stop there on my way back but the storm kept me in town longer than I expected."

So Bill knew she had not been near the Adamses! He had tricked her into telling a deliberate lie. Her cheeks burned with sudden resentment against him. What if she had gone to town? She had a perfect right to do so. Many wives came and went without discussing it with their husbands. For all his protestations of faith and love, Bill had jumped to the conclusion that she was doing something she shouldn't.

If her conscience had been entirely clear Donna would have confronted him and demand the reason for such a narrow attitude. Knowing she was treading the edge of a precipice, she could do nothing.

She was restless to read, and the radio rasped her nerves. She could not keep her attention on what Miss Perkins was saying and her hands trembled too much for her to sew. She went into the kitchen and made some molasses candy, glancing every few minutes toward the clock and listening for the sound of Bill's footsteps.

When he came in she did not go to meet him. She heard him bid the nurse good night and ask if Grandfather was sleeping peacefully. Then he went up the stairs. When he did come down again Donna realized he was not looking for her, did not care where she was.

Her reluctance to be alone with him grew stronger. It was not that she was actually afraid of the entire truth becoming known so much as that she was in a state of panic, causing her to lose perspective. She knew that, if Bill sat in judgment over a small lie, the end would be reached when Mrs. Planter spoke—as speak she unquestionably would. The feeling that the man she loved and would have trusted to the end of the world had failed her was a deeper hurt than anything else could have been.

Bill, the steadfast, the true, the man of high principles and honour, had never existed. Instead her husband was proving himself jealous, unreasonably suspicious, small-minded and intolerant. What difference could it make now if their marriage did go on the rocks?

"Thunder Mountain"

Zane Grey's newest and greatest story of rip-roaring outdoor adventure, "Thunder Mountain," showing at the Alhambra from Sunday to Tuesday, brings George O'Brien back to the screen as a two-listed, virile, fighting hero of the lawless west.

Adapted from the new best-seller novel by the Homer of American plains, "Thunder Mountain" is an gripping story of the Idaho gold rush, of a man who gambled on a woman's love and lost, but could not be downed. Barbara Fritchie is the lovely but faithless beauty in this picture. An eastern girl, she encourages her father to stake O'Brien in his search for gold, hoping to share in his fortune.

O'Brien locates the mother lode in Thunder Mountain, a district long feared by the Indians. But when he returns to get Miss Fritchie and her father, Morgan Wallace, his rival, jumps O'Brien's claim and kills against friend. Everyone turns against him, hoping to share in his fortune.

MARBLE HALL
ABSOLUTE BEQUEST TO GOVERNMENT

The conditions under which the Government granted the use of the late Sir Paul Chater's residence "Marble Hall" as a residence for the Admiral of the China Fleet, were the subject of questions put to Government by the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson at yesterday's meeting of the Legislative Council.

The Colonial Secretary, replying, stated that the property was left to the Government absolutely and they had, therefore, the right to dispose of it as they pleased. He added that Sir Paul's porcelain and picture collections were to be housed in the new City Hall, when erected.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government (Hon. Sir Thomas Southern, K.C., C.M.G.), presided, and there were also present: His Excellency the General Officer Commanding the Troops (Major General F. S. Thackeray, D.S.O., M.C., A.D.C.);

The Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. D. W. Traill, C.M.G.);

The Attorney General (Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, K.C., O.B.E.);

The Secretary for Chinese Affairs (Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith);

The Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. E. Taylor);

Hon. Mr. J. M. Henderson (Director of Public Works);

Hon. Mr. T. H. King (Inspector General of Police);

Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, C.M.G. (Director of Medical and Sanitary Services);

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, Kt., K.C.;

Hon. Sir William Shenton, Kt.;

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, O.B.E.;

Hon. Mr. S. W. T'ao, O.B.E., L.D.S.;

Hon. Mr. T. N. Chai;

Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson;

Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell;

Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo;

Mr. H. R. Butters (Deputy Clerk of Council).

Mr. Paterson's Queries

The Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson asked:

"1. With reference to the statement which has recently been published in the local press to the effect that the Government is granting the use of the late Sir Paul Chater's residence, Marble Hall, as a residence for the Admiral, will the Honourable Colonial Secretary say whether such statement is correct? If so, for what period and on what terms and for what rent has such use been granted?"

"2. If such statement is correct, has any such grant been sanctioned at any time, and if so when either by the Legislative Council or by the Finance Committee?"

"3. Were not Marble Hall together with the pictures, porcelain and pottery therein belonging to the late Sir Paul Chater bequeathed by him to the Government of the Colony and is it not thereby implied that such bequest was made for the use and benefit of the general public of this Colony? If not, for whose use and benefit were such bequests made?"

"4. In whose custody now are such pictures, porcelain and pottery which have been taken by the Government for the preservation and housing of them and for the enjoyment of the inspection of them by the public?"

Government Reply

Replying, the Colonial Secretary said:

"1. The answer is in the affirmative. The terms are that 'Marble Hall' shall be used as the official residence of the British Naval Commander-in-Chief and that the Admiralty shall maintain it and keep it in proper repair at their own expense and shall return it to the Hongkong Government in good order and condition, should they cease to use it as the 'Admiralty House' of this Colony. No rent is charged."

"2. The sanction of the Secretary of State, but not of the Legislative Council or Finance Committee was obtained in 1927."

"3. Clause 4 of the First Codicil to the will of the late Sir Paul Chater reads as follows:

'Whereas by Clause Twenty-two of my said Will I have declared that my wife shall be entitled to live in my residence at 'Marble Hall' if she desires to do so and in such event the said residence and the furniture fixtures and household effects in or about or belonging to the same other than my collection of china referred to in Clause Twenty-five of my said Will shall not be disposed of by my Trustees until my wife shall cease to live in such residence. Now I hereby declare that upon my wife ceasing to reside at Marble Hall aforesaid, dying then and in the said Marble Hall and bequeath the said Marble Hall and the furniture fixtures and household effects (but not including the china and curios referred to in Clause Twenty-four of my said Will) together with all my racing cups and the whole of my collection of porcelain and pottery' in the said Marble Hall (but not including the china and curios referred to in Clause Twenty-four of my said Will) to the Government of Hongkong absolutely."

An Absolute Bequest

"It will be noted that the bequest is an absolute bequest to the Government and the Government is unaware that the Testator made any qualification of the bequest, or expressed any wish that the property should be devoted to any particular purpose, or indicated a desire to foster in any manner the Government's right to dispose of the property or any part thereof in any manner in which it might think fit."

"4. The 'Chater Collection of Pictures' is distributed between Government House, Government Offices and the University. They can be seen at any time on application being made to the authority in whose care they are. The 'Porcelain Collection' is stored in strong rooms and is not at present open to public inspection. NEW LEGISLATION
CATHOLIC MISSION OF MACAO INCORPORATION BILL

An Ordinance for the incorporation in the Colony of the Catholic Mission of Macao was moved by the Hon. Sir William Shenton at yesterday's meeting of the Legislative Council.

In moving the first reading of the Bill, the Hon. Sir William Shenton said:

The Diocese of Macao was created in 1876 by Pope Gregory XIII and is administered by a Bishop appointed by the Pope. The Diocese covers a large area which includes the Colony of Macao, part of the Province of the Kwangtung, two Parishes in the Straits Settlements and the Portuguese Colony of Timor. By virtue of his office the Bishop is responsible under the Canonical Law for the management and safe custody of the funds of the Diocese. A considerable portion of such funds is now invested in Hongkong in shares in public companies. The name of the present Bishop the Very Reverend Don Jose da Costa Nunes. This is very unsatisfactory inasmuch as on the Bishop's death or retirement the whole of the securities have to be transferred into the name of his successor. The Bill follows in general form the lines of similar Incorporation Ordinances. By Section 6 provision is made for the Vicar Capitular of the Diocese of Macao to act until a successor is appointed or until the Bishop's death or retirement. This is necessary as there is often an interregnum of about a year before the appointment of a successor and his arrival in the Far East.

The Hon. Mr. J. C. Braga seconded, and the Bill was read a first time.

Other Ordinances

The following Bills, moved by the Attorney General and seconded by the Colonial Secretary, passed through their first stages:

A Bill to amend the Volunteer Ordinance, 1933.

A Bill to amend the Probates Ordinance, 1897.

A Bill to provide for the Incorporation of the Hongkong Travel Association.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the custody of Infants.

A Bill to make better provision in this Colony for the granting by magistrates of separation and maintenance orders to married persons.

A Bill to regulate the importation and the removal of sand.

A Bill to further and protect the activities of The Girl Guides Association, and to incorporate the Hongkong Branch thereof.

Bill to amend the Ferries Ordinance, 1917.

Bills which passed through their final stages were: An Ordinance to amend the Contribution Ordinance, 1901, and "An Ordinance to provide for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

ment, as at present advised, intends to house the porcelain and picture collections, so far as may be possible, in the proposed new City Hall. It is hoped that they will ultimately be housed in a Museum, but the finances of the Colony do not permit of the expectation that an adequate museum can be built in the near future. The collection of pictures is checked half-yearly. This check will now be extended to the porcelain collection."

C.B.S. Staffing

At yesterday's meeting of the Legislative Council, the Colonial Secretary replying to questions by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, O.B.E., regarding the staffing of the Central British School stated that Government did not consider the school was seriously understaffed.

The Hon. Mr. Braga's questions were:

"1. Will the Government state whether it concurs in the opinion expressed by Mr. E. Burney, M.C., in his Report on Education in Hongkong, that the staffed, with 14 full-time teachers, with 14 part-time assistants for about 250 pupils on the books?"

"2. Has the Government taken 'the first opportunity to review the staffing' aforesaid, as recommended in the Report?"

"3. If no such steps have yet been taken to rectify the disproportion between teachers and assistants and pupils, will the Government explain the delay, if any, in giving effect to Mr. Burney's recommendation?"

"4. What economy is it expected to effect, respectively, in the current financial year and for the year 1936 when the proposed reduction in the staff is carried out?"

Does Not Concur

The Colonial Secretary replied:

"1. The Government does not concur in the view that the Central British School is at present 'lavishly staffed.' These two words are employed by Mr. Burney in his Report, but with important qualifications which the Hon. Member has omitted to mention."

"2. The staffing in question has been reviewed and in the present view of the Government this is not excessive for a mixed school providing for both physical instruction and a curriculum for boys and girls. I invite the Hon. Member's attention to Mr. Burney's remarks about the size of the present classrooms."

"3. & 4. These questions do not arise as the new premises are not expected to be ready for occupation until next autumn. Although the Report in question has been laid on the table of this Council it is the opinion of the Government that the consideration of its detailed recommendations should in the first place be the concern of the Board of Education to which the Report has been referred."

CHINA'S STAND
GENERALISSIMO MAY GO TO PAOTING

Shanghai, Nov. 28.

Forecasting a visit to Peiping by Nanking's foremost military commanders, Chinese newspapers publish in big letters possibilities of grave developments in the north. They say that a powerful settlement of the autonomous agitation is centred on the interview of Mr. C. T. Wang (former Foreign Minister) with Japanese leaders at Tokyo.

If diplomacy fails, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek may personally fly to Paoting, near Pootung, to direct operations. The Marshal is in constant discussion of the serious situation with his highest subordinates. The Generalissimo maintains a calm attitude, waiting for the outcome of Mr. C. T. Wang's mission.

At present the question of the question of armaments and munitions was one of the chief topics of Nanking discussion. General Ho Ying-ching (Minister of War) will visit Peiping first, making some important investigation before advising the departure of Chinese troops.

Heavy concentration of Chinese troops is reported in Shantung and Kiangsu. Chinese sources say that, to demonstrate, Japan is ready to send 1,000 aeroplanes to North China, with Tientsin, Peiping and Shanhai-kwan as the centres of operations. A big Japanese aerodrome is in the course of construction near Peiping along the Peiping-Mukden Railway. Three hundred Japanese troops are working daily.

The same report adds that the Japanese would seize all Chinese aerodromes, railway, telegraph and telephone stations should hostilities break out. For this reason the Japanese officers have been demanding withdrawal of Chinese troops from many strategic positions in the north. The Japanese are confident that they can occupy Peiping and Tientsin with 50,000 troops.

Chinese Naval Manoeuvres

Under the supervision of Commander Taang Yi-ling the Second Nanking Squadron is now holding manoeuvres in the waters off Fukiens. The squadron consists of the cruisers Hai Chow, Hai Yung, Yin Swei, transports Yung Chien, Yung Taih and gunboats Ta Tung and Tao Kung. The manoeuvres will continue until December 5, when the cruisers will return to Nanking.

Adviser's View

Criticising Japan's territorial ambition in China, Mr. W. H. Donald, British adviser of the Nanking Government and Marshal Chang Hsueh-ling, said that China was prepared for eventualities.

Mr. Donald passed through Hongkong on Wednesday after a short holiday visit to the Dutch East Indies. He told Chinese newspaper representatives that the Japanese were behind the Hoppel autonomous movement, the same tactics being adopted four years ago to take Manchuria. Mr. Donald said that China was only trying to delay hostilities with Japan, knowing that she was handicapped mechanically and scientifically as compared with her stronger neighbour.

Commenting on the League of Nations, Mr. Donald believed that the League of Nations would apply sanctions against Japan as they did to Italy in connection with the Ethiopian war. The presence of Soviet Russia at Geneva also strengthened the League of Nations considerably, said Mr. Donald.

The above statement by Mr. Donald is a translation from Chinese newspapers.

Foreign Minister

Shanghai telegrams say that Mr. Chang Chun may become the next Foreign Minister. A graduate of the Tokyo Military Staff College, Chang Chun was vice-minister of War in 1929 and acted for some time as Mayor of Shanghai. His appointment may be decided on December 2, when the Executive Yuan meets.

The Nanking Foreign Office has issued an emphatic denial that important documents have been stolen. A mistaken report in Shanghai newspapers says that because of the missing of some important papers a councillor of the Ministry was dismissed.

CORRESPONDENCE
St. Andrew's Church

(To The Editor, Hongkong Telegraph)

Sir—Would you be good enough to allow me to bring to the notice of your readers, on the eve of St. Andrew's Day, the special effort we are making this year to raise money at St. Andrew's, Kowloon?

It has been our custom at this Church for several years past to hold a Fete, Bazaar or Bazaar to help us meet our expenses, but this year we have decided to have a Day of Prayer and Gifts instead. There are a number of well-wishers of the Church all over the Colony who in years gone by have been connected with it, who may like to know of the special effort we are making this year and send us a donation.

The Church, as is well known, gives itself not only to religious work, but to much social and benevolent work too for the sake of the community at large, and it must raise $4,500 this year to meet its commitments which, owing to the large and abnormal expenditure largely due to dilapidations of the property, have been exceptionally heavy.

We should indeed be grateful if our friends and all who are interested in the work the Church is doing could come to her assistance at this time.

Donations may be sent to P. J. Hamilton, Esq., Audit Dept., G.P.O. Hongkong, or to the undersigned, and will be duly acknowledged.

J. R. HIGGS,
Vicar, St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon.

IRISH SENATE
ABOLITION PROPOSAL BY DE VALERA

Dublin, Nov. 28.

Mr. Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, has finally decided to abolish the Senate. He has tabled the necessary motion, which will come up in the Dail on December 5. It is a motion for the re-introduction of the Bill abolishing the Upper House, which was held up for eighteen months following its rejection by the Senate.

The matter can now be constitutionally raised again, and the Bill can become law within sixty days even if it is rejected again by the Senate.—Reuter.

Matthews, President of the Association, thanked the artists for their help and Mr. Li Chor-chi for his work in arranging the concert.

THRONE

LAMPS

FIREWORKS

FIFTY-THOUSAND pounds' worth of fireworks have been ordered for the Silver Jubilee in December of the richest man in the world—the Nizam of Hyderabad.

The orders, which are part private and part official, have all been given to British firms in England and in India.

The Nizam's Government have voted £45,000 for the celebrations.

A million fairy lamps will light up Hyderabad, the city of palaces and palms, during the festivities.

For a week the premier prince of India will drive each evening in a landau made of silver through the poorest quarters of the city.

According to the ancient tradition of his house, a Nizam must not only pay to feed the poor on festive occasions, but must himself see to it that the poor are fed.

10,000 Sheep

A thousand oxen and ten thousand sheep will be slaughtered.

On the morning of his twenty-fifth year on the throne, after praying at the mosque among the ordinary worshippers, the Nizam will receive the representative of the King Emperor, who will convey to him the congratulations of the Empire.

Then he will drive through the bazaars scattering new silver coins among the poor.

A subscription list has been opened to form a fund. There are 15,000,000 people in Hyderabad.

The Nizam has agreed to receive the gift on condition that it is applied to social services.

Subscriptions are pouring in and the authorities expect £250,000.

Over five hundred guests will go from Britain, the Dominions, and Europe to the most magnificent Moslem court in the world.

As they sat round feasting,

London Visitor Will Stay 200 Years

CROCODILE LAST OF FAMILY OF 50

Accommodation for the London Zoo's latest arrival has been booked at the Reptile House for the next 200 years—with liberty of extension.

The baby crocodile who is destined, if all goes well, to be the oldest inhabitant at Regent's Park in the year 2135, arrived early this month in a tiny crate from South America. At present he is only six inches long and the happiest orphan in London.

"He ought to be pleased that he has lost his parents," his keeper said, watching the little reptile ambly contentedly up and down the broad palm of his hand.

"Because they would have eaten him if he hadn't been captured.
They usually do, you know."

Caiman Crocodilus, to give him his official name, was hatched somewhere on the banks of the Lower Amazon about six months ago. At first he had from 40 to 50 brothers and sisters, but by the time his parents and relatives had finished with them they were reduced to two.

His only companion on the way to London died before he reached the Zoo.

Tank To Himself

"But this one won't die," said the keeper. "He has already settled down beautifully and is taking his food well."

The baby caiman has a little tank all to himself behind the scenes. The alligator family, apparently, is not a happy one, and members fight with each other on the least provocation.

"Put this little chap with an older crocodile and he'd be dead inside five minutes," said the keeper.
"Even George, out there in the main hall, who is 120 and as placid as they make them, would object
if I put this one in with him."

He put a finger between the new animal's jaws and watched the baby reptile bite at it.

"He can't do anything now," he said, "but later . . ."

Detectives Are Watching Yvonne Arnaud

Defectives are watching Yvonne Arnaud. For the past few weeks, every step taken by the charming vivacious Yvonne, idol of London theatre and film-goers, has been dogged by two bowler-hatted sleuths.

And Yvonne's only "offence" is that she is wearing £30,000 worth of jewels—a collection of winking, scintillating stones the very sight of which would make even an amateur crook's mouth water!

These jewels adorn Miss
of "The Improper Duchess," which is being "shot" by City films down at Ealing.

And the truth is that they are causing more worry to the folks associated with the film than anything else on the set!

They are part of the amazing collection of jewels formerly owned by the Russian Royal Family.

Mr. Irving Harris, upon whom also falls part of the responsibility for guarding them, is a very worried man.

"I shall not breathe easily until we have finished making the film," he said. "I have never had to look after so much money before!"

Every evening, when work is finished, the jewels, which include the tiara, a magnificent affair studded with glittering diamonds, several enormous gem-encrusted bracelets and heavy diamond and turquoise rings, are tenderly and skillfully removed from the person of "The Improper Duchess" and under the eyes of the detectives, locked away in a safe, the location of which is a secret.

"There is one thing about these jewels," Yvonne said, "they make me feel regal. I can act the part of a Duchess far more realistically while wearing the real thing."

Caiman Crocodilus will be ten feet long and fully grown in about 40 years, and in the prime of life for a century after that. Then he will settle down to peaceful old age.

LUDENDORFF FORECASTS WAR

OF THE FUTURE

ARMAGEDDON WILL BE SUDDEN AFFAIR.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN WILL BE THE TARGETS FOR GAS AND BOMB.

Berlin, Nov. 12.

General Ludendorff, one of Germany's famous war leaders, has just published a work on the war of the future. It is a brochure of 120 pages, entitled "The Total War."

"The total war," he writes, "which is not only a matter for the armed forces but also directly touches the life and soul of every single member of the nations at war, was born from the introduction of general conscription, from the growing numbers of the peoples, and from armaments whose effect constantly grows in destructiveness."

He points out that the idea of total war has been extended since the world war "by the improvement and multiplication of aeroplanes which drop not only bombs of every kind on the inhabitants of a country, but also propaganda material; and by the improvement of wireless which spreads propaganda among the enemy people."

Nations As Fortresses

In the war of the future, the battlefield, he says, will be the entire country of the nation at war, so that the inhabitants will be in the same position as people shut up in a fortress which is being attacked by an enemy.

"The total war is waged not only against the armed forces," writes General Ludendorff, "but also directly against the people," and he adds, "That is inescapable and absolute reality and every means of war will be put in the service of this reality."

This being so, General Ludendorff holds that the whole policy of the Government in time of peace should be in preparing people in the fight for life. He sees in Christianity the greatest danger to the proper preparation of the German people for the total war.

For the development of the racial consciousness in Germany required for the total war, he urges the acceptance of a German idea of God, "which is not based on promises regarding a future life that cannot be proved, but on natural science of the soul of the people." To stand up against an

Woman's Role

But the total war, he teaches, must be begun without warning. "It is an error to think that a war must be begun by a declaration of war," he writes, and he adds that it was a misfortune that Germany made a formal declaration of war before marching against Russia and France in 1914.

News Of Lost Flyer After Eight Years

"MAN WHO DROPPED FROM SKY"

Washington, Nov. 15. Eight years ago an American flyer, Paul Rader, set out for Rio de Janeiro to beat the long-distance record. Nothing has been heard from him since. Indian tales of a mysterious white man who came from the sky and lived in the interior of Dutch Guiana have been heard from time to time, but were dismissed as native folklore. Now, however, enough evidence has been received to convince the Department of State that the mysterious white visitor of these Indian stories is the lost aviator.

A mission teacher named Melchers forwarded a report through American Consular officials describing facts which appeared worthy examination. The report states:

Treated As Asot

"During December, 1934, I received instructions from the Central Mission at Paramaribo to send someone to the Indians higher up the river to collect samples of handicraft for an exhibition to be held in Holland. I therefore despatched a bush negro, who returned in February, 1935, and stated that while at an Indian village, of which he did not know the name, he was told of a white man who had come out of the sky, had both his legs broken, and was living in another village only three hours away; but as he was nearly out of food he did not trouble to go and see him."

A little later an Indian named Kapan, from the district visited by the bush negro, appeared in the hospital. Mr. Melchers questioned him, and when he refused to talk threatened to stop his treatment unless he did. The Indian thereupon said that he had seen the white man, who was crippled and living in a village named Palman, on the Palomene river. Sapakuni, the chief of the village, had helped the white man from the machine, which was wrecked on the savanna, not on a mountain.

Officials believe that the Indians regard the white man as an asot, and so have tried to keep his presence secret. Mr. Melchers stated that the savanna of that region were composed of white sand, so that a rescue plane could land there. Several Air Corps officers stationed in the Canal Zone have already volunteered to make an attempt, if they can obtain leave

If The Sun Exploded Or Went Cold

WAYS THE WORLD MIGHT END

Ways in which the earth and life upon it may meet their end are discussed by Dr. H. S. Spencer Jones, the Astronomer Royal, in his new book, "Worlds Without End," published this month.

Dr. Spencer Jones discusses two opposite possibilities—that the sun may "explode," burning all life and vegetation from the earth and possibly completely engulfing it; and that, after a long period of nearly steady activity, the sun's heat may quickly fall.

Even on the second supposition, that the anticipated explosion does not take place, Dr. Spencer Jones argues that the earth must have already lived "more than an insignificant fraction of its life." The explosion, if it materialises, Dr. Spencer Jones explains, would be of the type witnessed from time to time by astronomers in the sudden flaring up of what are called "new stars."

The brightness of such stars may increase several millionfold within a few days, and astronomers believe that there is at the same time an enormous expansion in the size of the star. In the case of the sun, he points out, this expansion might well extend far enough for the earth to be completely engulfed.

Every star, he concludes, must on the average, pass through this phase at least once in its history; and further points out that some astronomers believe that the sun is now showing signs that this phase may be approaching. In any case, he believes that the sun has not yet exploded, and that should this happen, there will be little final warning, only a few days, or even hours, of anxious waiting, and then the end.

"All life," he states, "would become extinct; the oceans would be turned into vapour; trees, forests, cities and everything combustible would be burnt; the sun would rapidly swell and might even consume and swallow up the earth."

Of the opposite possibility, that of death by cold, Dr. Spencer Jones writes: "It is probable that annihilation of matter does not take place on the sun (which would provide the maximum energy reservoir), and that the energy radiated is provided by the building up of complex elements from hydrogen. As the sun now contains about one-third part by weight of hydrogen the maximum possible loss of weight is limited to about one-third of one per cent."

"For somewhere about 40 to 50 thousand million years the sun could continue to radiate at a rate not differing very greatly from its present rate. But, after this period, most of the hydrogen will have been converted into heavier elements; the supply of fuel necessary to provide the energy for radiation will be rapidly falling. There will be a relatively rapid fall of temperature on the earth, and life would probably

Paris, Nov. 12.

Gold deposits some of which are richer than any outside the Transvaal are within the grasp of French prospectors who are slowly charting a huge triangular tract of savage country in hottest, darkest Africa.

The cautious French do not want to call it a gold rush comparable to the booms of California, Australia and Alaska. But they are working with optimistic official support, first to map and then to exploit lucrative deposits of yellow dust in France's vast African possessions.

News of the hopes which France places in her African gold first came to the knowledge of the world early this autumn, when the Ministry of Colonies in a surprise statement announced that preliminary prospecting had been completed and detailed work which must precede modern mining was to be begun.

The area, where prospectors are busy making charts of deposits and where they hope to begin mining soon with the most modern implements that can be used in that part of the world, is a triangular section including most of the Ivory Coast, part of French Guinea and part of the French Niger. There are spots where the ore is extremely rich, and parts where it is mixed with many other elements, but almost everywhere in this area there is some of the precious metal to be found.

Natives Mine Metal

Explorers have known of this gold for many years. In large sections of the vast tracts they traversed they found that the natives had been mining the metal for hundreds, perhaps even a thousand years, yet it was not until the autumn of this year that the time was considered ripe for officially announcing paying claims.

This was not due to indifference or negligence, nor did it have anything to do with lack of knowledge of the real wealth to be found in this African soil. It had to do with roads.

Until now there have been no roads passable enough to transport the gold profitably. Only this year have roads numerous enough and good enough for trucks to pass been completed, and therefore only now can there be talk of profitably mining the gold.

Working quietly in the past few years prospectors advanced almost at the same rate as road builders, with the result that they finished their preliminary mapping at the same time that the roads were completed.

It is true that the lack of modern transportation has never troubled the natives, thousands of whom have lived exclusively on mining their own gold for generations, but the amount of gold that will give a native a livelihood is not enough for a European mining company.

The French were confronted with one serious political problem when they announced the finding of paying gold. Over a wide area the natives depend on the metal for their living, and they would certainly be ruined if modern companies operated mines mechanically in competition with them. And if they were deprived of their livelihood they would make trouble.

Officials of the Ministry of Colonies, therefore, plotted out large districts where the natives work in the greatest numbers, and ruled that in these parts thousands of miles, in areas, no white miners are to penetrate. Thus, while Europe gets its gold, the blacks will still do their small scale mining, and through traders of their own race—mostly rice and cloth merchants of the Dioula tribes—they will continue to live on money they dig out of the ground, as they have always done in the past.

END OF A REGIMENT ANGERS A COLONEL

Lieut.-Colonel Stephen Thomas Banning, late of the Royal Munster Fusiliers, who died at Earl's Court, W., left £31,995. He paid this tribute to his wife:

"I wish to thank my dearest wife for all the love and care she has shown me during our long and happy life together."

Whereas, to the lasting disgrace of the miserable politicians who misgoverned our country at the time our glorious regiment, with its magnificent history and traditions, was disbanded in 1922, the bequest of my collection of medals to the regiment cannot take effect, I leave such collection

How Jews Are Outwitting Nazi Laws

BABIES BORN IN U.K. TO CHANGE NATIONALITY

Many wealthy Jews in Germany are determined that their unborn children shall not be citizens of the country which persecutes their race.

They have organised secretly, with the aid of Jews in London, an "underground railway" from Berlin to England. The English terminus of this "railway" is a nursing home in the quiet surroundings of a North London suburb.

Here, discreet nurses, who talk German fluently, receive the wives of German Jews as maternity patients.

Their Choice

Meanwhile, the husbands who have accompanied their wives to England are sent by the organisers of the "underground railway" to private hotels or Jewish boarding houses in London where they await the birth of their children.

The babies which are born to these German couples in England become automatically British subjects. The only proviso made by British law is that at the age of twenty they must make permanent their citizenship by declaring their British nationality in accordance with Home Office regulations.

As soon as the wife is convalescent she returns with husband and child to Germany.

But before they leave England they take care to secure copies of the birth certificate showing that their infant was born in Great Britain.

Secret Kept

These new "British" subjects in arms who are being taken by their parents to Germany, receive for the most part Christian names characteristically German.

Little Hans, Heinrich, and Elsa will not know for several years of the precautions their parents have taken that they shall not suffer from the Nazi persecution which has made their parents' lives a nightmare.

But if the need ever arises, the new "Promised Land" and protection of the Union Jack are their legal heritage, thanks to the

S. Francisco Lady Of Cemetery

POLICE EVICT TENANT FROM A VAULT!

San Francisco, Nov. 15. Lady Of The Cemetery San Francisco police recently were set to the unusual task of evicting a "tenant" from a cemetery vault.

Mrs. Marie Jahnke, 70, was booked on a vagrancy charge after patrolmen escorted her to City Prison from Calvary Cemetery where they found her sitting asleep in a vault occupied by the bodies of her father and mother.

Awakened, Mrs. Jahnke, no more frightened by police than by the thought of spectres, was indignant. She denied that she was breaking the law. For months she had come to the cemetery to sleep, creating something of a mystery in San Francisco where she was known as "the lady of the cemeteries."

Police served an "eviction" notice several days before they walked into the vault one dawn to take her from her strange habitation. A sympathetic but firm judge informed her that graveyards must not be violated by the living.

Her defence was that she was guarding the family vault from vandals. She had spent her nights there for a long time, she said. With her in the vault police found a package of food, a bundle of clothes and an alarm clock set for 6.30 a.m.

She told the court that her father was Edward Ruhling, who was chief assistant assayer at the United States Mint. He died in 1898. Later her mother died. She said she had two daughters but that neither lived in San Francisco.

Mrs. Jahnke laughed when asked if she was afraid of ghosts.

"I do not believe in ghosts," she said. "My mother taught me to hate cowards, and I've never been

CHINESE ART

BRITISH PRESS

TRIBUTES

London, Nov. 28.
The Chinese Exhibition evokes a chorus of unbounded praise from all papers, colour and black, and several of which described as only preliminary, the exhibition being further surveyed with copious illustrations.

Fashion writers are eagerly seeking new models and rhapsodize over the loveliness of Chinese colours and the subtle difference of one of Chinese blues, reds and yellows.

The Times writes that it is difficult to see how for sheer beauty, form, colour and exquisite workmanship this exhibition can fail to be the most popular among the series of winter exhibitions held at Burlington House.

The Manchester Guardian writes that you may trace Chinese art back as far as you please into the dimness of prehistoric times, and there is still no trace of a primitive style as there is in Europe.

The Morning Post paying a tribute to the Chinese Government for the generous loan of so many treasures says, "We Europeans would do well to walk humbly to this exhibition since it reveals a civilization, which was subtle and refined when we were yet barbarians."

The Daily Mail writes that never before on this planet has there been so thorough a survey of Chinese art, which acknowledges no superior.

The Royal Academy restaurant has invented a Chinese cocktail described as a cross between a white lady and a Bronx.

Cartoonists are eager to plagiarize Chinese models for satirizing topical events.—Reuter.

Mr. J. L. McPherson, M.B.E., M.A., was last evening installed as District Grand Master of English Freemasonry for Hongkong and South China. The installation ceremony was conducted by Mr. J. Owen Hughes, the retiring District Grand Master.

good display over 1 1/4 miles gallop in 2.50.4/5th covering the last furlong in 29 seconds and I expect him to be well up in the finishing line. I am afraid that the Derby distance is too much for Soldier of Germany, who, I am given to understand will accept. Mr. Raymond Pih will take out The Tiger who, at the time of writing is in fine condition and incidentally these two like each other. The Tiger has returned some good training times during the last ten days and his chances are very good as are those of Mistake Bay and Ribble.

DAILY DOUBLE

The first leg of the Daily Double Event is on the Glasgow Handicap confined to "A" Class ponies and it is more than likely that all will accept. I hear a change of jockeys will be made in Hen's stable, i.e. Mr. Frost will ride Gladstone and Mr. T. Fung has Macaroni. Soldier of Britain will have another tussle with King's Warden but on slightly better terms and I am in with the Soldier. Cyclamen Bay is in well in the matter of weight and is dangerous.

The Cooze Handicap for "A" class Australian Ponies will be the best event of the afternoon and if Mr. Clerk of the Weather would be so kind as to favour us with a first going, the record of Trollop Star for six furlongs in 1.17.2/5th will be broken. So far, Atlas has no jockey and Mr. Davis has the choice of Australian Boy or Southern Cross. Mr. Frost has not yet decided to take out Boblink Star or Shooting Star. Derby Day will be ridden by Mr. Fung, Racing Heart will have Mr. Black, Saucy Face has Mr. Pih and Vixen Tor has been booked by Mr. Ralph. All the acceptors are speedy merchants and a thrilling race is assured. I like Shooting Star, Saucy Face, and Vixen Tor.

The Comrie Handicap "D" Class (Second Section) will be the second selected race of the Daily Double Event and being a sprint race over five furlongs, anything may happen. There are certainly over six ponies worth backing and they are Emergency Call, Gold Bullion, Partnership, 17th of September, Soldier Star, The Rain Gauge and Tin Ho. Mr. Frost will undoubtedly try his utmost to win with 17th of September, as if it falls, the pony is ineligible for the Hongkong Autumn Sub-Griffin Championships. I expect The Rain Gauge will put Mr. Tang Man-wan out of the novice class.

NOVICES' RACE

The meeting will wind up with a novice race, the Inverness Handicap from the two mile post, once round and in, and from the list of 13 entries before me, the finish should be between Bright Star (Mr. W. H. Choy), the High Speed (Mr. Tang Man-wa), Pacific Hall (—), Royal Romance (Mr. Ip Kum-im), Soldier of China (Mr. H. A. Botelho), Trowbridge (Mr. H. V. Penrose) and Valorous (Mr. S. L. Yuen). As High Speed is ranked by the Handicapper as the best, he should therefore pass the post first to be followed by Soldier of China and Trowbridge.

NOTES OF THE DAY

that Canada's absence has actually lasted only a few months, during which she continued to sit by a special concession. Even if a country cannot claim a permanent seat as a State of chief industrial importance, this does not, of course, mean its exclusion from the Governing Body. There are eight more Government members, which are filled by election by the Governments themselves as well as eight employers' and eight workers' seats to which the members are elected in their personal capacities by the employers and workers respectively. Thus, some countries actually receive a three-fold representation on the Governing Body. It is particularly gratifying that Canada has been able to return, since the I.L.O. has recently been making every endeavour to secure better representation for the overseas countries, in view of their growing importance in the economic life of the world.

the shroffs, but you'd enlist the aid of all your pals. Under these circumstances, shroffs would soon wither away, or become taipans or Government servants, or meet some similar horrible end.

One harsh word from the boss, and immediately the whole staff would apply sanctions.

In the case of newspaper reporters, they could refuse to write the words "Excellency," "Mr.," "Gentlemen," "Ladies," and in reports of speeches would leave every second or third word blank.

Of course, there would bound to be some controversy regarding the advisability of applying sanctions to the words "beautiful girl," "and-eyed widow," "noted figure" and "charming couple" but, then, Geneva has led us to expect difficulties of this nature.

The chief advantage of the system is that it could be carried out without risk of offence.

When it is politely explained that we are merely applying sanctions, the object thereof, instead of being angered, will be almost grateful. He will feel that a subtle compliment is being paid to him, and may even show his appreciation by applying sanctions in return.

We are going to start the ball rolling by refusing to hand our pay cheque over to the wife this morning. There are definitely prospects in this.

Editor's Note: It is regretted that Mr. Edward Kelly, the well-known writer, will not be able to attend St. Andrew's Ball to-night. Mrs. Kelly telephones that her husband has met with some slight accident, part of the ceiling of his living room apparently having fallen upon him.

FRIDAY, NOV. 29, 1935.

THE CHATER BEQUESTS

The conditions under which Marble Hall, former residence of Sir Paul Chater, has been handed over to the Admiralty were disclosed in the Legislative Council yesterday, in answer to questions on the point by Mr. Paterson. The house is made available as a residence for the Admiral for so long as the naval authorities use it as such, and no rent is being charged. Maintenance costs are to be the Admiralty's responsibility, and should the residence at any time cease to be used for the purpose named, it has to be handed back to the Government in good condition. Apparently, the gift is in the nature of a gesture to the Navy, especially in view of the fact that Hongkong appears to be the only naval station in which the Admiral has no official residence. There is apparently no question as to the right of the Government to make over the residence in the manner in which it has, but members of the Legislative Council, as representatives of the public, have some cause for complaint in that they were not in any way consulted in the matter. The permission of the Secretary of State was secured, it is revealed, as far back as 1927; why the Council were not consulted, and why the decision was kept secret for so long—only to be disclosed in response to Press enquiries—it is difficult to understand. Regarding the Chater collection of pictures and porcelain, the position is anything but satisfactory. The pictures are scattered about in Government House, Government offices and the University, being for all intents and purposes not available for public inspection; whilst the porcelain is stored in strong rooms and hence rendered inaccessible. There can be little doubt that Sir Paul's intention was that these treasures should be made available to the public. The Government intends to house the collections in the proposed new City Hall, and ultimately in a new museum. Seemingly, it is proposed to build a museum separate from the City Hall, although this has never been definitely announced. The Government says there is no prospect, by reason of financial considerations, of the new museum being provided in the near future; but this is equally true of the much-needed City Hall, the scheme for which is now in abeyance. Thus it will be many a long day before the

OIL

It is a Blessing to Mankind —and a Curse . . .

THE reek of oil rises over the world. He who owns oil rules the world.

The vast industry of modern road transport runs on oil. Tar is made from it. Newspapers are poured from the presses wet with ink made from oil or carbon black. Houses are painted and proofed against the weather with oil, shoes are cleaned with it, lipstick could hardly be made for the million without it.

Half the ships of the world are fuelled by oil. And coal is passing away as the driving power of railways. Diesel oil is supplanting it. Carbon black, derived from petroleum, has given rubber a wear-resisting quality greater than rubber itself.

Now a fear fills the hearts of men—that oil will be mingled with blood. Once men fought with spears and lances, or later with guns and rifles, lands, or forests, or ports. To-day, above all, they fight with oil.

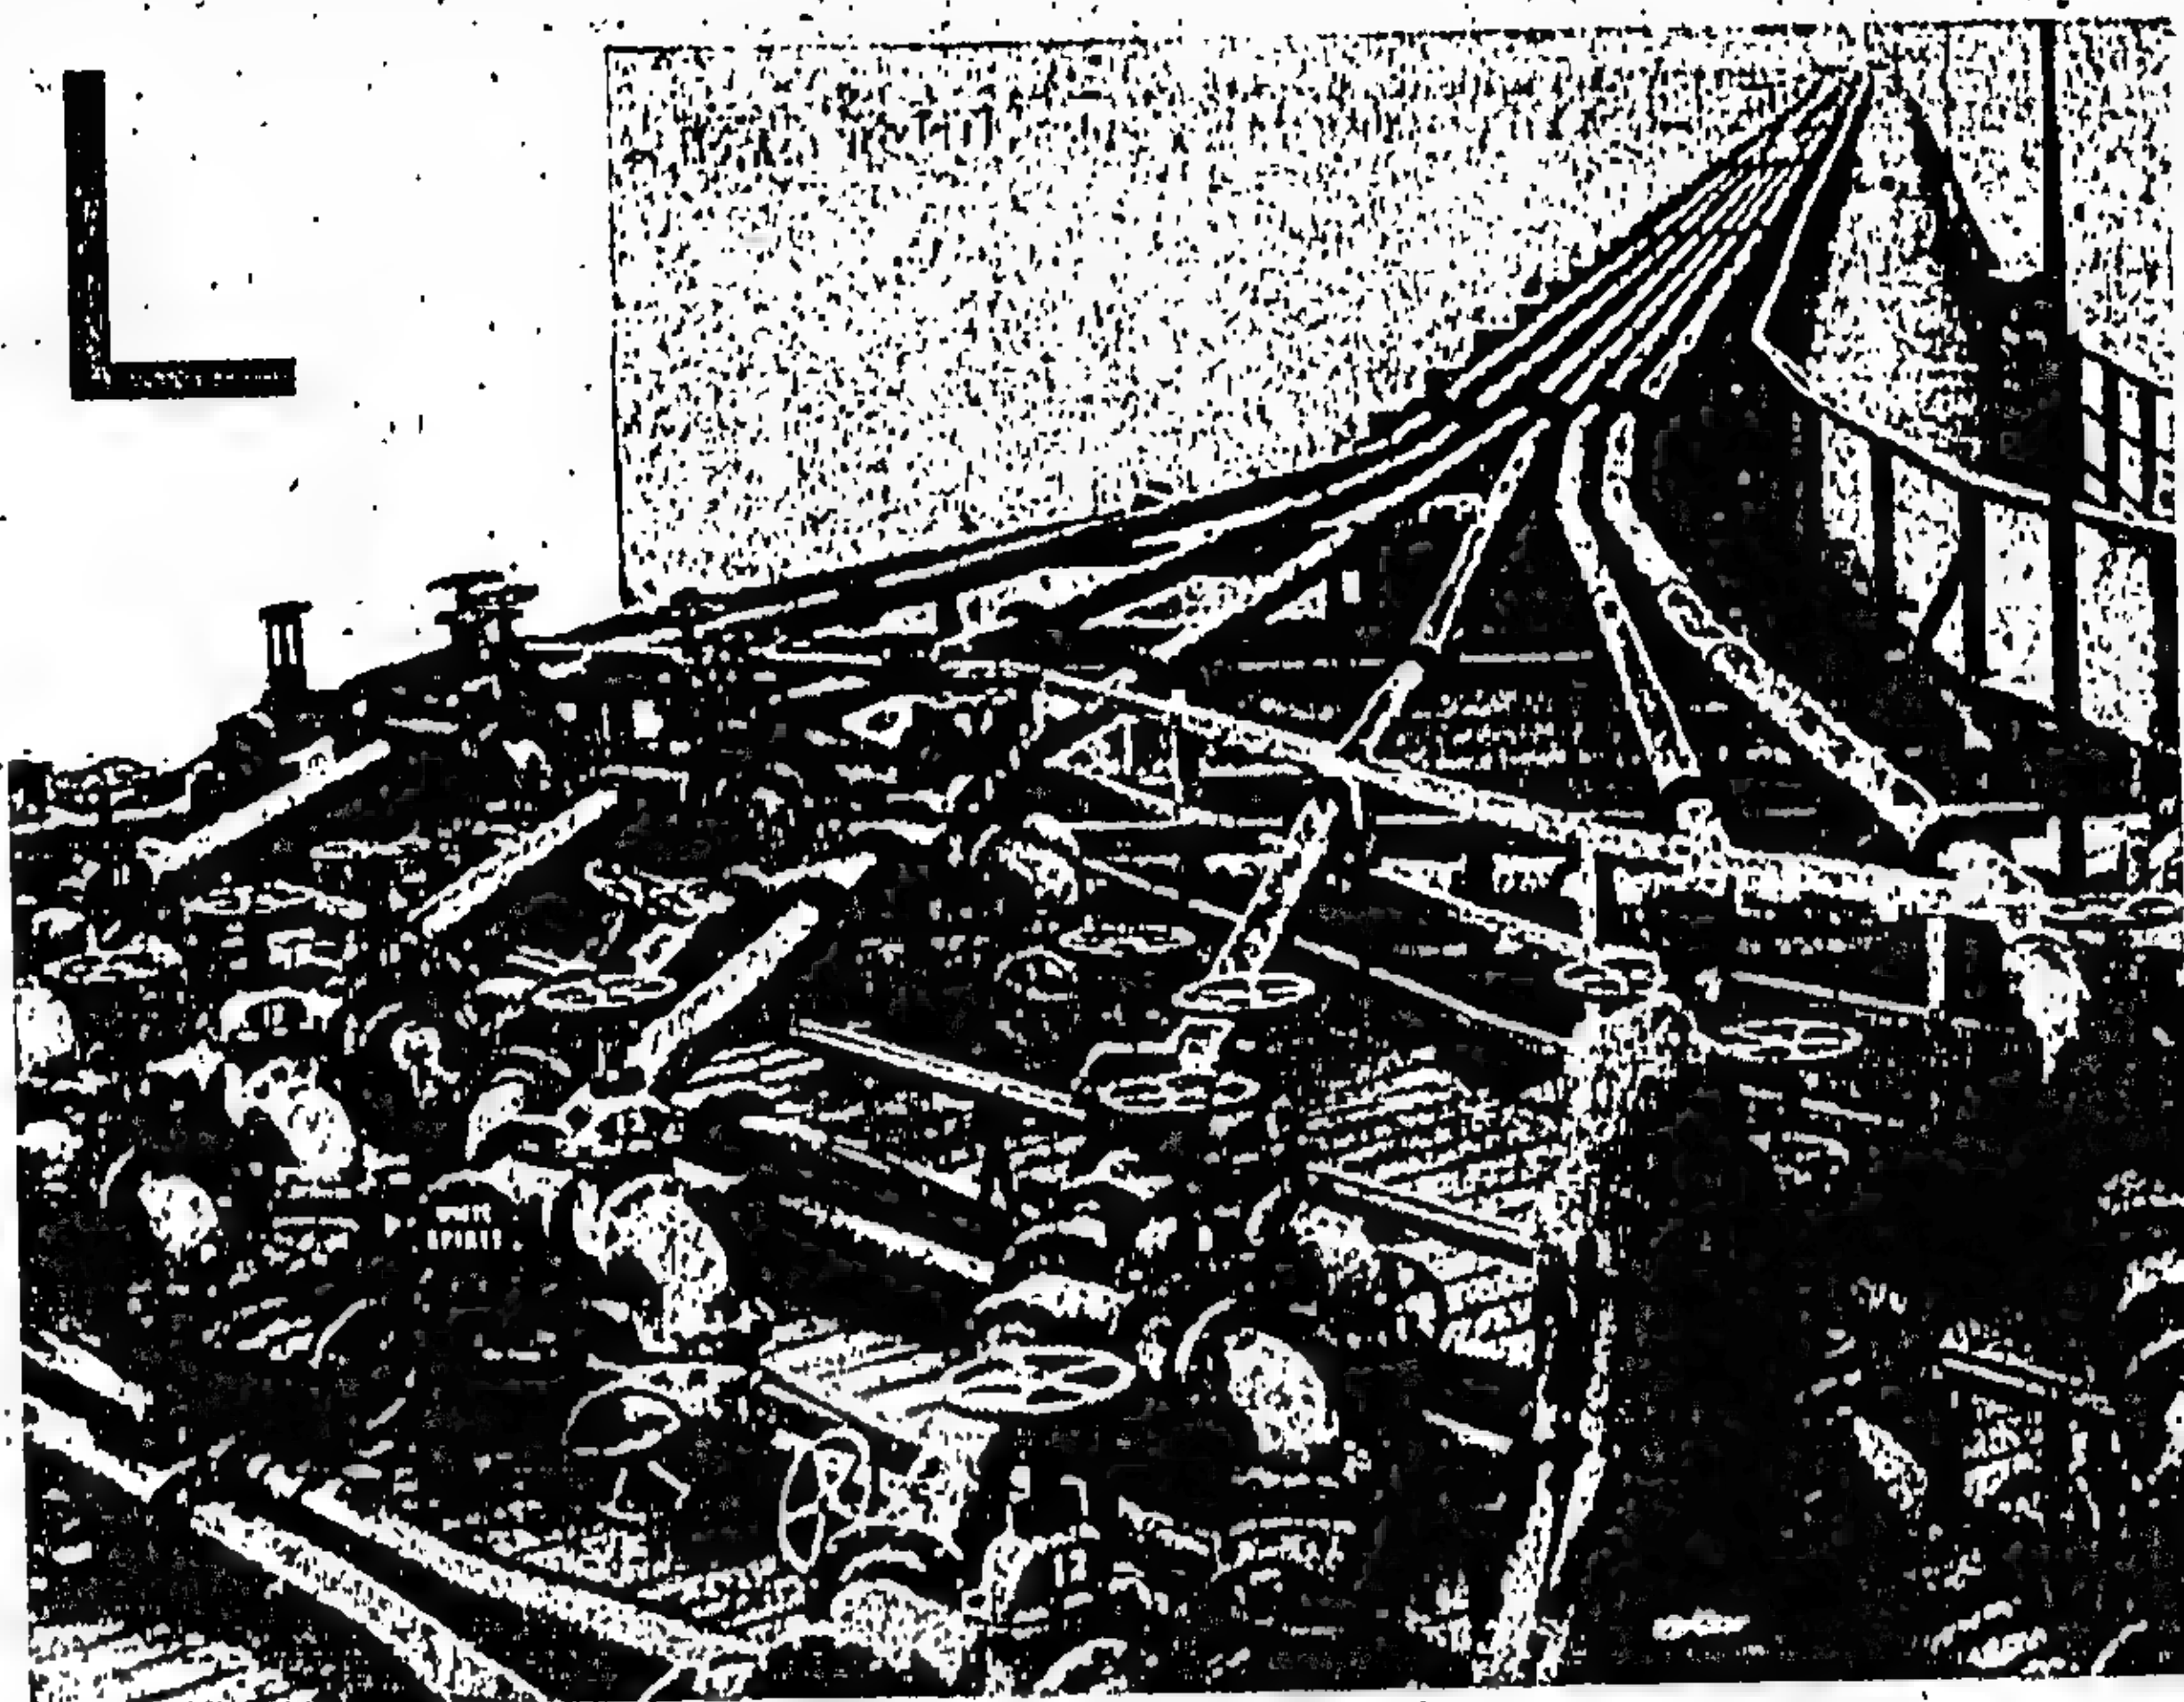

NOTES OF THE DAY

POPULAR MAPLE LEAF

Of all the decisions taken by the Governing Body of the International Labour Organisation of the League of Nations at a recent meeting, none was more popular than the election of Canada to a permanent seat, writes a commentator from Geneva. Under the constitution of the Governing Body, eight Government seats are permanently held by the eight countries of chief industrial importance. The Governing Body itself decides which shall be considered as these States, but any question on the subject goes to the League Council for decision. The criteria were worked out in 1922 on an elaborate accounting system of population, number of factories, wealth, etc., and the eight States chosen were Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, India, Italy and Japan. When the U.S.A. and the Soviet Union joined the I.L.O., it was clear that they had a right to permanent seats, but it was less obvious who should retire. Finally, revised criteria were adopted which gave more weight to population and were thus more favourable to India and Italy. The result was that Canada and Belgium dropped out. Belgium accepted this decision regretfully but loyally, but Canada thought for a time of appealing to the League Council. The retirement of Germany has, however, made another vacant seat, so

Chater collections are made open to general inspection. When the vote in respect of the road to the new Government House—part of the city development plan—came before the Council yesterday, it almost looked as if the scheme was being resumed. But the explanation was that the road had already been completed. This circumstance, together with the ignoring of the Council in regard to the Marble Hall transfer, provides an illuminating sidelight on local methods of Government.

Oil will play an important part in the Italian campaign in Ethiopia. Cut off from the oil supplies of the world, the invaders would be helpless, their fight hopeless.

Once upon a time armies marched on their stomachs. Now they move on petrol tanks. Navies burn oil, airplanes are driven on oil. The tanks, armoured cars and transport wagons of the mechanised armies are helpless without oil.

At the moment oil dominates the world situation. Probably only one thing prevented Italy from fighting Abyssinia long ago—the lack of oil with which to move her armies. Now that lack, by collective action, may be turned into a famine.

The distribution of oil over the world is uneven. It determines the strategy of the Great Powers. Only two Great Powers have sufficient oil deposits in their territory to be independent of outside sources.

The first is the United States, which controls or owns roughly three-quarters of the world supply, and the other is the Soviet Union, which controls about one-eighth.

The rest is scattered through the world, and that is one reason why Britain must have a great navy to control the sea paths along which that oil is brought here.

For to-day, even in peace time, Britain needs 1,300,000,000 gallons a year, and from her own oil-from-coal schemes she could hardly produce more than one-tenth. The amount we get from British Empire countries is only 71,000,000 gallons.

That is why Britain finds it necessary to control Iraq and Persia, to lend powerful support and real protection to the Dutch East Indies, and to keep the South Atlantic open to Venezuela, the third largest source of oil in the world.

You can see from these figures how vulnerable Britain would be without a navy. You can also see that if Britain and the United States stand together there will not be any great war, as long as they control the seas.

Japan is short of oil. This makes her envy Russia's vast half-developed Caspian oilfields and covet the Dutch East Indies. Already it has made her seize Manchukuo. For in Manchukuo there are coal mines with 5,000,000,000 tons of shale oil in them.

Now the overwhelming predominance of the United States in oil is beginning to diminish. So, indeed, is the world's supply, and very seriously, too. Under present conditions the potential reserve is estimated at 24,000,000,000 barrels. The world is using it at the rate of 1,500,000,000 barrels. So sixteen years may see the finish! No wonder the oil men fight for new fields.

In and out of the headlines to-day flashes the name of Sir Henri Deterding, Dutch-born British citizen.

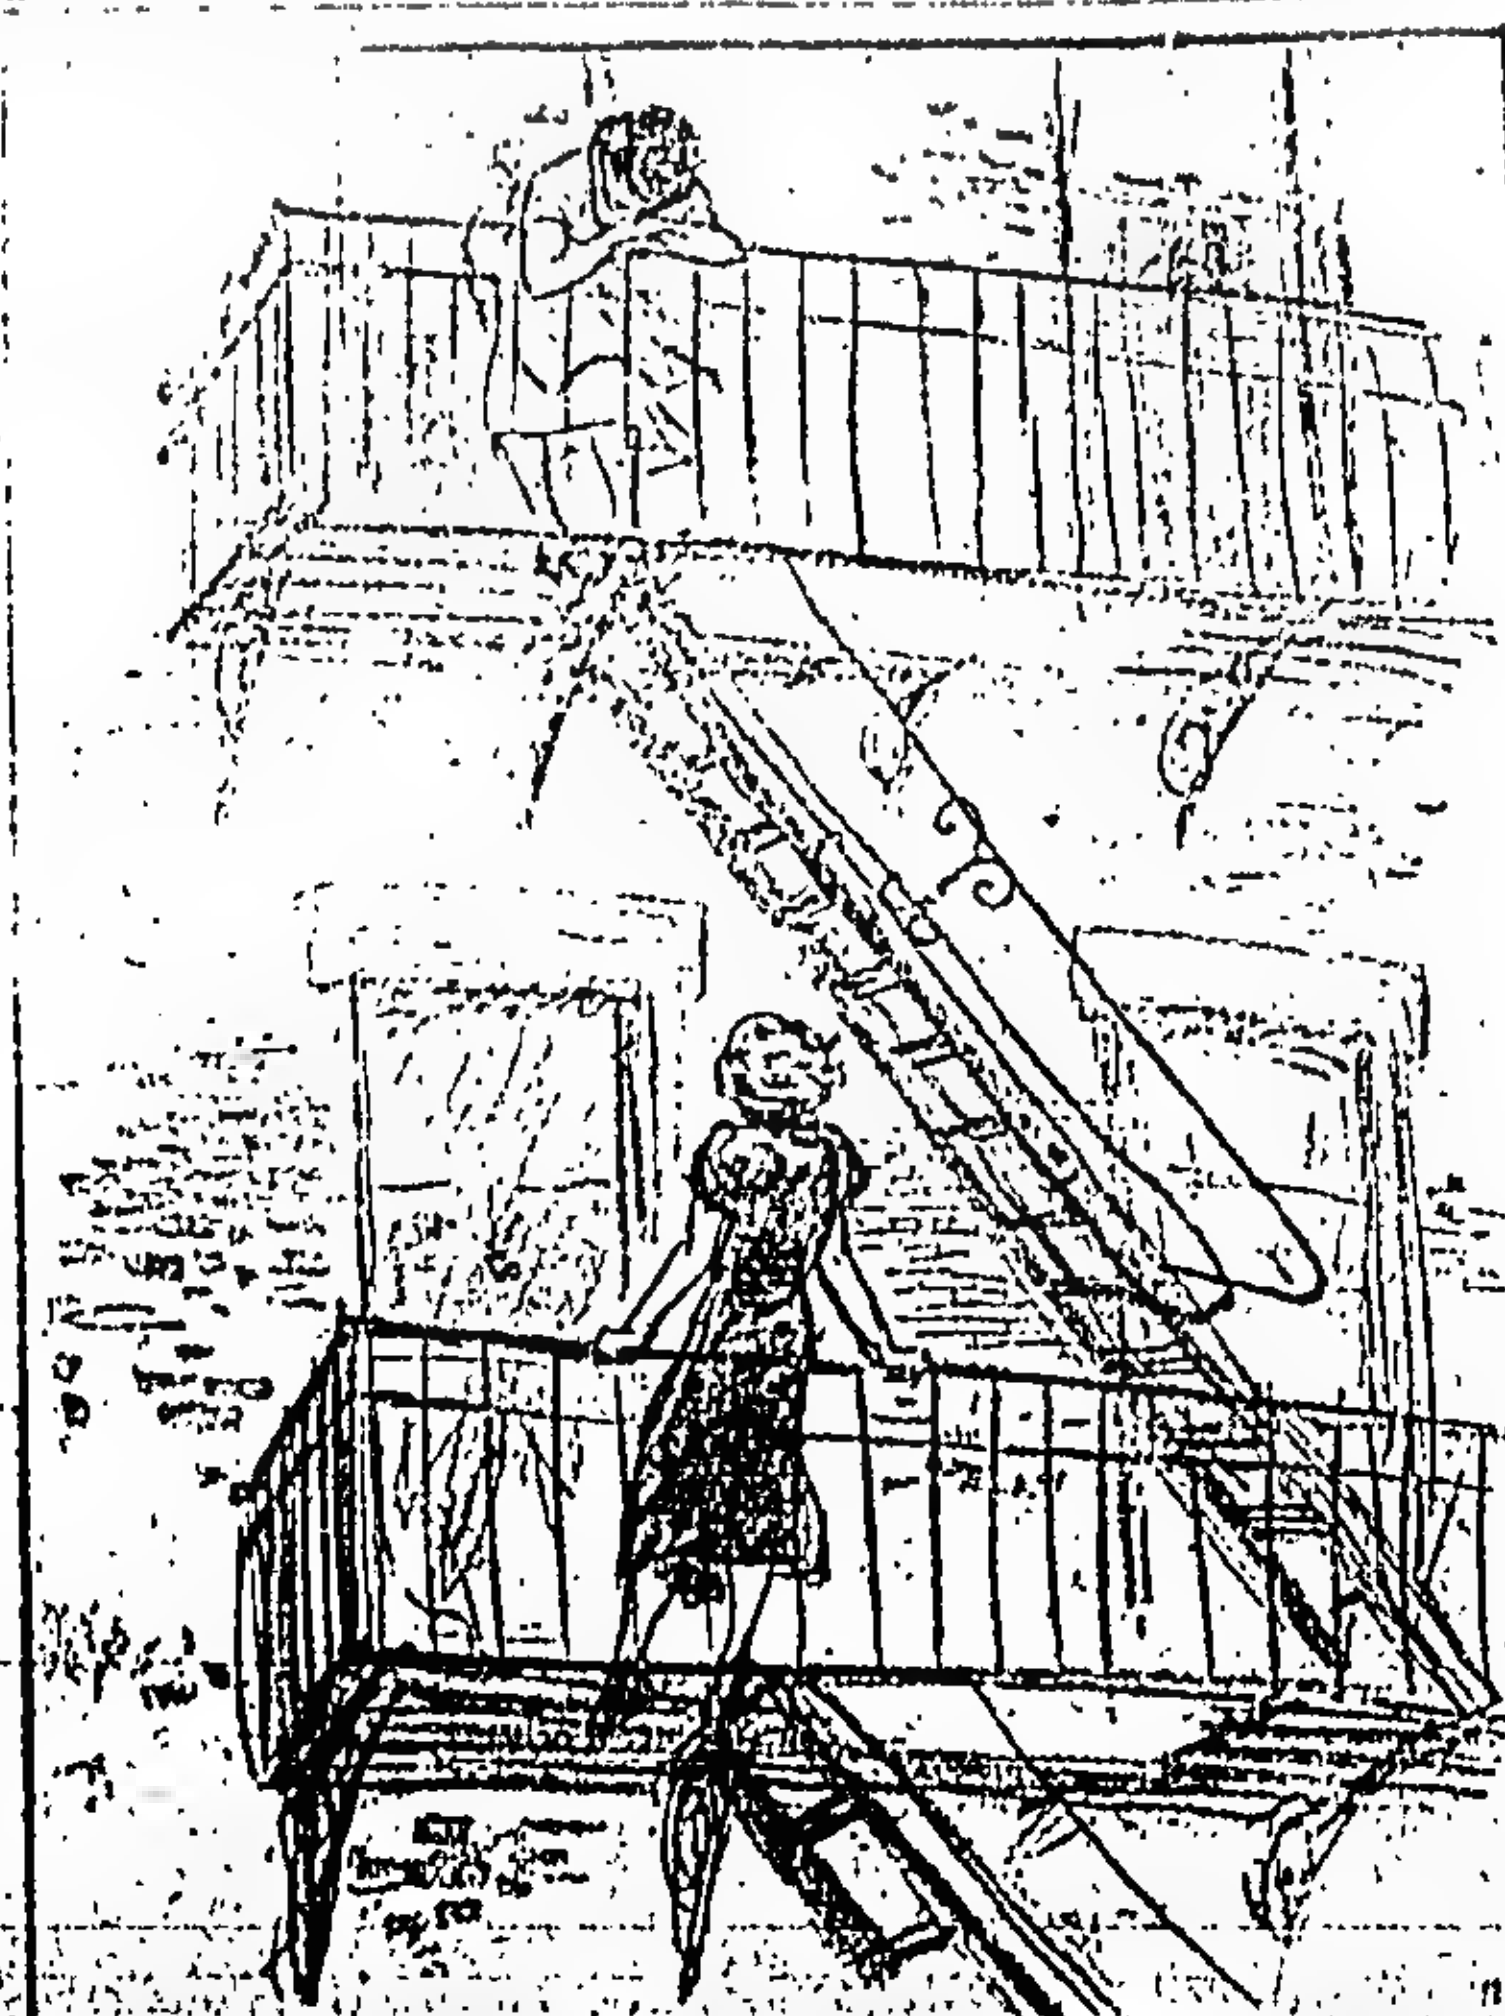

Lord Fisher described Deterding as "Napoleonic in his audacity and Cromwellian in his thoroughness."

Fisher said that mouthful after Deterding had beaten John D. Rockefeller, until then the heavy-weight, long-distance champion of the oil fighters.

Deterding decided early in life to fight Rockefeller for the oil kingship.

He took the precaution of getting the Paris Rothschilds behind him. Then he went into the United States itself and bought up land and companies right under the nose of Rockefeller and his associates. After that he fought Rockefeller from Mexico to China.

When the oil war was at its height in China, Rockefeller gave away millions of lamps to the Chinese, and on each lamp was inscribed Mei Foo, which is Chinese and means Good Luck.

"The oil men fight for you was saying about a date. I told them that."

Then he sold the Chinese his Rockefeller oil to put in the lamps.

Deterding waited until all the lamps were burning brightly and then proceeded to sell Royal Dutch oil much below Rockefeller's price.

When the treaty of peace was signed between the oil fighters it was on the basis of a fifty-fifty agreement and equal monopoly prices in the oil markets.

Now, British oil investments amount to close on £150,000,000.

When and if the League of Nations control the Black International of Oil, then it will control both the sources of war and of peace.

But the great Imperial Powers of the world have so far been able to control the Black International far less than the Soviet Government can control the Red International.

Like the propagandists of the world revolution, the salesmen of oil have far outrun the control of national Governments.

Humanity goes dithering along—electing rulers for parishes which are called nations, while men controlling the keys of life and death stretch their hands untrammelled across the world.

It is these men—not their countries—who can end the war in Ethiopia, by prohibiting the sale of oil to Italy. Very soon, now, they may do so.

The Very Idea!

THESE SANCTIONS

Let's Start An Embargo On Everything, Says Kelly.

By Eddie "Gergsa" Kelly

"Prohibiting the sale of files, pliers, torches, jemies, hackaws and mauls to Edward Kelly at the Central Court yesterday, Mr. Scheldt, on behalf of the Hongkong Government, commenced sanctions against a notorious burglar who has been endeavouring for the past two months to break into the strong room of the new Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

Interrupted in his work upon the massive doors by a press representative yesterday, Mr. Kelly paused long enough to grant an interview on the subject of sanctions.

"I've still got enough back saw blades to last me six months," he said, "and so long as the Court doesn't place an embargo on hand-drills and gelignite, I think I'll be able to win through." Mr. Kelly then resumed his task.

Meanwhile, a committee comprising the whole issue of Hongkong Magistrates is meeting at Mac's Snacks counter tonight to consider further sanctions. The difficulty appears to be that, while Mr. Kelly's credit has been stopped at Lane Crawford's, Wing On's, Sincere Coy., and other establishments, the China Emporium and one or two others refuse to apply sanctions.

WE haven't had reports like this in the local papers yet, but if we thought we could get away with it, there soon would be some. After all, what's the difference?

We are all in favour of this sanction idea being applied to the Colony. There's a lot of things we'd like to declare sanctions on ourselves.

For instance, a punitive expedition of shroffs, which seeks to rob you of your hard-earned salary, could be met with economic sanctions. Not only would you refuse to give money to

Filipino National Defence

COMPULSORY TRAINING

President Manuel Quezon has asked the National Assembly to confer full powers on him as chief executive to carry out immediately plans for Philippine military defence.

He made this request in his first message to the unicameral legislature which he delivered in person. He was accompanied by the legislative hall by the members of the cabinet, including the Vice President, and the members of the supreme court headed by the chief justice.

All were attired in formal dress making a departure from similar appearances of the chief executive under the old regime.

The President outlined his plans for the national defence of the islands, but declared they were too comprehensive and intricate to be discussed in detail in his message. He declared, however, that in brief the scheme contemplated only the mustering of an adequate land force sufficient to insure peace within and to make invasion from without so expensive that it would prove folly on the part of an aggressor nation to attempt it.

PEACE IS OBJECTIVE

"Our objective is peace, permanent peace," President Quezon said. "The establishment within these islands of a force capable of threatening any other nation would be fantastic," he added.

The President said that he will propose the creation of a department of national defence with the necessary bureaucratic units to carry out the details of administration. He urged that at this stage of building and construction of the national defence for the islands, the hands of the President should not be tied by the assembly with details. Later on, when the plans have crystallized in definite form, he explained, the legislature may suggest appropriations and the ends for which they are to be spent but in the meanwhile the President must be allowed plenty of latitude to work out plans and carry out details through agencies which will be created.

COMPULSORY TRAINING

The President stressed basic principles in his message which shall guide the execution of national defence plans. First is compulsory military training. The second is that the national defence system must provide actual security, for "an insufficient defence is a contradiction in terms."

Third, that the strictest economy be observed in expenditure for "to permit this cost to exceed the minimum demanded by the purposes we seek would be an inexcusable blunder and a betrayal of the trust reposed on us."

The Philippines will not attempt to build a fleet, the President explained, for the simple reason that this will not help the economic resources of the Philippines to undertake. This will emphasize the passively defensive character of our military establishment, he said.

GRADUAL BUT SURE

The construction of Philippine military defence shall be gradual but sure, President Quezon declared, so that by the end of ten years the islands would have built up a well prepared military force of 19,000 men and 1,500 officers. By this time through compulsory training and military instruction by the schools of the country, there will be available for any emergency a reserve force of hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of trained men.

NOT MENTALLY BALANCED

MAN TO BE SENT TO INSTITUTION

With the agreement of the defendant's sister-in-law and daughter-in-law, Chan Hing, aged 45, an unemployed fitter, was ordered to be removed to a Government institution for medical observation and treatment by Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

The defendant, who appeared on remand, was charged with loitering outside the gate of the officers' quarters of the Lai-chikok Female Prison last week.

Detective-Sergeant Ellis stated that the daughter-in-law of the man had been found and it had been found that defendant lived at Aberdeen. The man had been mentally unbalanced for about two months and had been treated by both Chinese and western doctors. He had been formerly employed on board the s.s. Tandu as a fitter.

On the night in question, defendant apparently left his daughter-in-law's house at Fa Yuen Street and boarded the wrong bus and arrived at Lai-chikok, where he wandered about. Both the defendant's sister-in-law and daughter-in-law appeared in Court and it was stated that defendant's wife, who was also living at Aberdeen, was at present in hospital. It was also stated that it would be beneficial for defendant if he was sent to a Government institution.

An order was accordingly made for defendant's removal.

NEW PARLIAMENT PROSPECTS

LITTLE BUSINESS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

The awaiting of members of both houses of Parliament was continued to-day. The Commons debate on the address in reply to the King's Speech, which will begin on Tuesday after the State opening of Parliament by His Majesty, is expected to last for the rest of the week.

Opinion in political circles is that the Government will not proceed with any major measures before Christmas. A certain amount of business brought forward from the last Parliament calls for immediate attention, such as the Expiring Laws Continuance Bill.

The King has approved the appointment of Under-Secretaries, which complete the reconstruction which the Prime Minister at present has decided to make in his Government. The appointments represent a rearrangement of offices among present holders, except that Colonel Colville, Secretary of the Department of Overseas Trade, takes the post of Under-Secretary for Scotland, vacated by the death of Mr. Noel Skelton, and Mr. George Lloyd, formerly Parliamentary private secretary to Mr. Baldwin, is a newcomer to the Ministry as Under-Secretary for Home Affairs, in place of Captain Euan Wallace, who has gone to the Department of Overseas Trade.

LONDON PHONES AND TELEGRAMS

BIG REORGANISATION SCHEME

Further developments in the reorganisation of the Post Office administration, as recommended some years ago by a committee presided over by the late Lord Bridgeman, will shortly be begun when the telegraph and telephone services in the London area will be brought under unified control in the "London telecommunications region" extending from St. Alban's to the north to Reigate and Redhill in the south and from Gravesend in the east to Staines in the west.

It would be responsible for over half a million exchange lines and nearly 250 telephone exchanges and would include the London trunk exchange, which is the operating centre for trunk calls between London and the provinces, and for calls passing between Great Britain and other countries, and also the central telegraph office, which is the centre not only for the inland telegraph service, but also for the telegraph service with continental countries and with ships at sea.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

LONELINESS IS ONLY AN OPPORTUNITY TO CUT ADRIAT AND FIND YOURSELF.—Anna Shannon Monroe.

Hongkong rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. to-day totalled 0.14 inch. The total since January 1 is 70.08 inches, against an average of 83.93 inches.

Mr. S. Gestetner, managing director of Gestetner Ltd., is arriving in Hongkong from Shanghai on December 4, in the course of a working tour. Mr. J. B. Dunn, Far Eastern manager of the company, is arriving here from Singapore to-morrow.

Li Kwal, aged 60, was sentenced to six months' hard labour when he appeared before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with a breach of the deportation ordinance. Defendant was banished from the Colony on August 8, 1934, for a period of ten years.

Committing a breach against a Deportation Order by which he had been banished for a period of ten years, was brought before Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning and sentenced to 12 months' hard labour. Defendant pleaded that his mother was in the Colony and was dangerous to the public. He had only meant to stay one day in Hongkong. Detective-Sergeant C. Goodwin prosecuted.

A fine of $10 was imposed upon J. A. Victor, of No. 11 Gap Road, when he appeared before Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, summoned for speeding through the controlled area at Nathan Road at 4.20 p.m. on November 8. Traffic-Sergeant A. Bethell, the complainant, stated that he followed defendant, who was driving private car No. 4238, through the controlled area and witness's speedometer registered a steady speed of 28 m.p.h. Defendant stated that he was travelling at what he thought to be a very moderate speed and may have accelerated to avoid a cyclist.

Sentences totalling four months' hard labour and a fine of $60 was passed upon Young Lin, 30, unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning charged with distilling spirits at No. 101 Un Chau Street, without a licence, and the possession of utensils for distilling, fermenting material and distillable by-products. The pleas of defendant, Pun Sau, Ho Man, and Li Pui, was accepted and they were charged. Revenue-Inspector O'Neill stated that from 50 to 60 gallons of mash and six gallons of spirits were found.

POLITICAL CHESS IN N. CHINA

SUNG URGED TO RECONSIDER

PLAYING FOR MORE POWER?

Nanking, Nov. 29. General Ho Ying-ching, Minister for War, has sent a message to General Sung Chieh-yuan urging him to reconsider his decision and to accept the appointment of Pacification Commissioner of Hopei and Chahar immediately.

Yesterday General Sung declined the appointment, saying that since it was virtually impossible to assure the safety of Peiping and Tientsin, which was partly his responsibility, he could not undertake to pacify the two provinces.

Some observers believe that General Sung is playing for a wider authority than the suggested appointment would give him and that he is anxious to replace General Shang Chen's troops at Tientsin with his own. It is known, too, that General Sung is under tremendous pressure from the Japanese.

It is feared the present situation cannot long be maintained and that the status of Chahar and Hopei may change within a few days' time. General Shang Chen and General Han Pu-chu have declined to go to Peiping for a conference with General Sung.—Reuter.

MORE BEGGARS CHARGED

BUDDHIST MONK CAUTIONED

Another batch of beggars was brought before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with begging in the Central district. They were given varying terms of imprisonment, and two who had previous convictions were sent to gaol for fourteen days.

Among the batch was a Buddhist monk. Acting Sub-Inspector Smith stated that he was charged as the result of complaints received from persons stating that defendant caused an annoyance at their doors.

His Worship recommended defendant to seek assistance at the Young Buddhists' Association, and discharged him with a caution not to beg outside doors.

CHINESE ART EXHIBITION

NOW OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

London, Nov. 29. The public gained admission to-day for the first time to the International Exhibition of Chinese Art at Burlington House. Of the four thousand exhibits, about 800 pieces come from the Imperial Palace at Peking, by special arrangement with the Chinese Government. The King and Queen have loaned a number of valuable objects.

The largest exhibit is a huge figure of the Maitreya Buddha, said to weigh twenty tons. Small pieces include combs, hairpins and mirrors two thousand or more years old. The jade are considered remarkably fine and include an axe-head dating from 2,500 years before the Christian era and a set of three seals attached by chains, the complete work having been cut from one block of the rarest yellow jade.

In addition to pottery and porcelain, bronzes and textiles, there are masterpieces of calligraphy and lacquer. The exhibition is regarded by experts as the most magnificent collection of Chinese art treasures ever brought together in one place.—British Wireless.

OFFICE BOY'S THEFT

TOOK MONEY FROM DESK

Fun Lu, aged 18, an office boy employed at the Fung Keung rubber factory, Shaokwan, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield, the Central Magistrate this morning on a charge of having stolen $123, property of Mr. Fok Kim-sek, manager of the factory, on November 19.

It was stated by Sergeant Whitley that the defendant had stolen the money from the drawer of the cashier's desk about 6 a.m. on November 19. He had opened the drawer with a chisel. Being afraid to be caught with the money in his possession, he had put the wad of notes behind a bookcase, but when he came and recovered the money in the afternoon, he found the wad had considerably diminished, and he only got a wad of $3 a month.

In his statement, defendant said he had stolen only $23 but in answer to the charge before Mr. Schofield, he admitted the amount, might have been $123.

The defendant was remanded for 24 hours in police custody, to raise the money.

SETTLING DOWN IN CANADA

MR. AND MRS. DAVIDSON LEAVE

Amongst the passengers who left by the Empress of Canada to-day were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. E. Davidson and their daughter, Mrs. Betty Pass, and their grand-daughter, Miss Pamela Pass. Their intention is to settle down in Victoria, British Columbia.

Mr. Davidson, who was formerly in the Hongkong Mule Corps, from which he retired with the rank of Honorary Lieutenant, has made many friends in the Colony during his lengthy residence here. He is well-known in sports circles, having previously played a great deal of tennis, and has played regularly in bowls for the K.B.G.C. Since his retirement from the Army he has been, since 1929, storekeeper in the Police Department. Mrs. Davidson was at one time a teacher at the Kowloon Junior School.

Their many friends will wish Mr. and Mrs. Davidson many happy years of retirement.

Damage to the extent of approximately $1,000 was caused in the early hours of this morning when a fire broke out in the basement of No. 333 Queen's Road Central, where the Man Tak Wah Tenhouse and the basement was used for the storage of charcoal, dried tea-leaves and furniture.

The alarm was given at 1.15 a.m. and the Fire Brigade was immediately summoned. The fire was put out shortly afterwards, but not before some damage was done.

It is stated that the damage is covered by insurance. The cause of the outbreak is unknown.

R. Abbit Hits Out: Cricket League Management Criticised

CLOSE OF PLAY TIME BLUNDER

Present Arrangement Is Ridiculous

(By R. Abbit)

Last Tuesday, I think, I said a few words on the question of the time for drawing stumps in League Cricket. I have since verified the position and the result leaves me stricken with wrath and amazement. The times proposed for drawing this season are so ridiculous that it is amazing that they could ever have been carried even at a meeting of the Hongkong Cricket League.

Some two or three years ago a certain medium of intelligence was shown in putting back the time of drawing so that the matches might be finished in semi-darkness. I print the two times for reference.

| | 1931-35 | 1935-36 |
|----------------|---------|---------|
| October | 6.05 | 6.15 |
| November | 5.50 | 6.00 |
| December | 5.35 | 5.45 |
| January | 5.20 | 5.30 |
| February | 6.05 | 6.15 |
| March | 6.05 | 6.15 |
| April | 6.05 | 6.15 |

Now I will leave October and April out of it. March too if you like. But I maintain that the rest of the times last season are put to the limit and that this year's times are sheer idiocy, except possibly on the K.C.C. and King's Park grounds. I assume, of course, that the drawing time must be constant for the Colony, which, if admitted, means that the earlier hour anywhere must be chosen. I shall be very surprised if anyone who really does know anything of cricket does not agree with me. By way of example, I will quote two of last Saturday's games and ask the players of H.K.C.C., K.C.C., Army and I.L.C. what they think. The new Official hour of closing the games should have been six o'clock. The Army-I.L.C. game finished at 5.55 p.m. and I heard bitter complaints of the light. The Club game finished 5.45 p.m. and I should be interested to know whether any of the players—the fieldsmen perhaps more than the batsmen—really think that cricket could have been reasonably played for another quarter of an hour.

ANOTHER GROUSE

As I have said, I am no supporter of the movement to do away with the League, but if it is going to be managed by a body that makes a mess of things as has been done for the last two years, then I say, ditch it, and play non-League games where the two captains arrange everything that is not provided for in the Laws of Cricket. To take another point—fixtures. I have mentioned this many times before, but I think the mess-up has been outstanding in the last two seasons. When did the K.C.C. get their fixture cards last season? Have members of the H.K.C.C. got their fixture cards this season? They may have by the time these lines appear in print—but I have not got mine when writing, and I am speaking here as a member.

Do not let it be thought that I am slinging ink—or mud—at the Secretaries. I am not. It is marvellous what they do at this meeting—the only one of the year. But the meeting is held too late, and the executive members of it should arrange preliminary meetings of Secretaries, so that the whole fixture list can be clinched at the meeting itself. By this method even the Interport should not present any very great difficulties—as it may be taken as a broad position that no league games can be fixed before November 7 if the match is in Shanghai, or November 21 if it is in Hongkong. Before those dates only non-League games should be fixed. I suppose I shall be accused of starting a foolish press attack—or of stupid criticism of cricketers who know more than I do about the game. Actually I am writing as I do because I think that the present method of running the League is doing a lot of harm to cricket. I attack no individual. The decisions of the League Body are not those of individuals but of an amorphous conglomeration of people whose zeal I think is apt to outrun their knowledge of the game at times.

It is no service to Cricket itself to write smooth things when one is honestly convinced that the game in the Colony is being adversely affected. I think that the management of the H.K. Cricket League need to set their house in order—and I say so very frankly. Let me stress that this is in no way an attack on any individual. If either the President or the Hon. Secretary agree with the new hours of drawing I'll stand them a drink. On the contrary, I am actuated by the feeling that it is the catch vote of an uneducated conglomeration of people, and that is why I have written as I have.

One final word. I know perfectly well that the rest of rule 16 provides for the umpires to decide that light is unfit for play and stop the game. All I can say is that I have played cricket 20 years here and have never seen an appeal against the light in a League game (or in a non-League game that I can remember) all the time. Nor can I envisage the sudden appearance of a race of super-umpires who will stop a game when an exciting finish is in being.

Well, after all that perhaps we had better get down to facts. I still have no cards from several teams but hope to receive them as soon as they are ready. To-morrow there are two League games in the Senior Division. The most keenly contested one will, I think, be that between the K.C.C. and the Army on the K.C.C. ground. The Army are fielding the same side as they did on Saturday last and I shall be very interested to see if Walsh pursues the same policy as he did then—as regards his bowling. I think, too, that between the K.C.C. and the Army on the K.C.C. ground, the Army are fielding the same side as they did on Saturday last and I shall be very interested to see if Walsh pursues the same policy as he did then—as regards his bowling.

The other game, at King's Park, is between the Navy and the Club, and should normally have been regarded as a good thing for the Club. It depends, however, on what sort of a team they turn out, as the Navy are very dogged fighters and are, in spots, apt to make up for a certain deficiency in polish by a grim determination to get runs. I have heard that the Club may not be at full strength, and if this is so, the game may be very even, especially if Branwell is playing and gets going.

The I.L.C. and Civil Service are not playing and the only other game in which I am aware is that between the H.K.C.C. and Navy II. I rather imagine that for a time the Navy side after to-morrow will be rather changed about in its personnel. Space once more forces me to hold over my notes re the Clubs.

The Kowloon Indians Tennis Club, holders of the Marnock Hockey Championship, will meet the Royal Engineers on the Marina Ground at 4.15 p.m. to-morrow when the civilian side will be represented by the following eleven:

Ramzan; Karnall Singh (capt) and Kishan Singh; J. Noronha, Tara Singh and Pereira; G. Noronha, A. Khan, Avtar Singh, Pinto and Souza.

on Victoria Hall to Mr. Pih. Great Hall ran a good race when he was second to Racing Boy in the Kent Handicap (Second Section) over 1½ Miles and to-morrow he is set to carry only 155 lbs. He is in good condition and is worth backing.

Harvest View's last outing was in the Hongkong St. Leger which was out of his distance but in the Hongkong Grifflins Cup over 1½ miles run on November 2, it was only due to Mr. Frost's hard riding on Pontiac Bay that Harvest View lost by half a length. Harvest View is set to carry 158 lbs and no doubt he will give a good account of himself. Monoplane is nicely in at 155 lbs and the distance is to his liking. Ythan is very low at 140 lbs and last Sunday he covered Six Furlongs in 1.37.3/4 which was not a bad performance for a Grifflin of this year but is he worth $5—each way?

COMRIE HANDICAP

The Comrie Handicap for "D" Class Ponies over five furlongs has been sub-divided into two sections at the discretion of the handicapper and there are 15 good sprinters in the first section. The race is very open. Flybynight after his last performance holds the post of honour with 108 lbs and then comes the great old warrior Boxing Eve with 104 lbs. Festival Eve who won last time out has to carry 3 lbs more and Belmont Star who won the Suffolk Handicap over Six Furlongs has to shoulder 111 lbs extra. It is rumoured that Mr. Prentiss is taking out Festival Eve and I certainly like his chances. Philanderer is nicely in at only 140 lbs but so far has not a jockey. I don't like Rousseau as he has to run with blinkers and that is not a good sign. Heart's Glory will be under Mr. Rosa and this pony had bad luck to lose the Talpo Handicap. I hear that Mr. Wood will take out Wembley Stag and will claim five lbs allowance. West Parade does not like racing. The main feature of short events is to draw a good position and get away quickly at the release of the barrier.

ST. ANDREW'S STAKES

With the elimination of "A" Class Ponies coupled with King's Jubilee and Rose Queen who were winners of St. George's Plate, the main event the St. Andrew's Stakes have attracted 12 entries and the race is very open. It is strange to say that no Scotch owner has as yet figured in the list of winners since the introduction of this classic event and it is amusing that there is no representative to-morrow.

However, there are a few stayers in the list and it is with much regret that Sadko has not been entered owing to the fact that the pony went lame last week. The absence of Sadko is very heavy. The said pony did a useful mile gallop last week in 2.09 coming home the last quarter in 29.3/4 seconds and the connections are confident that he will be placed, if not win.

Hetman made his first public appearance on the Shanghai courses in 1928 and prior to winning a long distance in Hongkong, he was not considered a stayer; but when he won the Commonwealth Handicap (1½ Miles) on March 23, 1932 beating such stalwarts as Sitting Bull and Sadko, he certainly did spring a surprise to the rail critics. Hetman is getting on in years and the youngsters will have to be at their best to beat him.

MR. FROST UNDECIDED

I doubt King's Faney will accept as he is a sprinter and the presence of Lemberg is to make up the field. If wet, Pride of Telngiao will make the field run for their money. Mr. Dunbar will be represented by either Mistake Bay or Pontiac Bay and both of them are set to carry weight for inches.

So far, Mr. Frost has not decided which one he is going to ride. Pontiac Bay requires no further introduction after his recent running in the Hongkong St. Leger at the last Meeting and Mistake Bay is to my estimation a stayer as she was fourth in the Hongkong Derby. She was late in coming to form and has improved 100% since her return from the North. Last Sunday the two candidates galloped one and a quarter miles in 2.45.2/5th and came home in 30 seconds—finishing strong, and the last half-a-mile was covered in 1.02.

Ribble has at last recovered his jockey Mr. J. Botelho who has been booked to ride him in the main event. It may be of interest to know that their combination last year gave to our late Chairman, Mr. C. G. Mackie and Mr. Grayburn, two wins, four seconds and a couple of thirds, and Ribble ran a wonderful race in the 1934 Hongkong St. Leger when he succumbed to Soldier of Britain, but nevertheless had the satisfaction in trouncing Gladiator, Soldier of China, King's Warden and others.

During the week Ribble gave a

Three Games Against Recreio

F. H. Kwok and G. A. Smith, St. John's No. 1 couple were again in splendid form last night when they won all three games against the Recreio "B". But they could not avert the defeat of the visitors by six games to three. The Rev. Bennett was unable to turn out for St. John's and G. Ladd substituted. But he and Tyson were somewhat outplayed and could only aggregate 17 points. Recreio "B" fielded a much stronger side than that which was so ignominiously defeated by the Club's "A" team this week. Barros and Bernie Gosano re-appeared in the team, thus ensuring success. Nevertheless the Recreio did not have things their own way and in addition to conceding three games to Kwok and Smith were made to "set" one game against Koh and Norman Smith.

Scores:—H. Barros and A. E. Xavier (Recreio "B") lost to F. H. Kwok and G. A. Smith 10-21; beat Roland Koh and Norman Smith 21-4; beat H. C. Tyson and G. Ladd 21-3. B. Gosano and N. Boltrao (Recreio "B") lost to Kwok and Smith 8-21; beat Koh and Smith 24-23; beat Tyson and Ladd 21-17. F. J. Remedios and A. A. Basto (Recreio "B") lost to Kwok and Smith 5-21; beat Koh and Smith 21-17; beat Tyson and Ladd 21-10.

SERIAL STORY

DONNA OF THE BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XII

Bill and Donna stood facing each other in the warm, cheery sitting room that smelled of woodfire and dried lavender and the faint odour of drugs drifting in from Grandfather Siddal's room. Through the double doors Minnie could be seen setting the table for supper.

Donna laughed nervously, pulled off the snow-covered hat, removed her coat and shook it; then crossed to the fireplace to warm her stiff, chilled hands.

"If she lies I'll know that damnable letter is true," Bill thought. "But she won't lie. There is no reason why she should. Anonymous letters are always vile untruths."

"I'm late," Donna said. "The drifts are something awful for such a what's the matter, Bill? Noticing for the first time his curious pallor and tight lips, she went on, 'Is Grandfather worse?'"

"I was worried. That's all." She turned her back so that he could not see her face as she spoke. "I stayed longer than I intended."

"Oh, you went to the Adamses?" "Of course." She lifted her hat and flicked it with her forefinger. "I told you I was going there."

"I know, but when you stayed so long I thought perhaps you had changed your mind." His voice was harsh, as cold as the air outside.

"No, I'm sorry if you were worried. You said you didn't mind my going. I didn't." He sat clenched and unclenched in an effort at self-control. "Thought maybe you might have gone to town."

"No. Why should I go to town?" "No reason that I know of." "Supper?" Minnie announced.

"I'll change my shoes." Donna said hastily. "They're wet." Bill looked at her feet. The shoes were sodden. "Why didn't you use the robe?"

"I did, but I had to get out—there's a knock in the ear and I—"

Donna's eyes widened. Her lips parted but, noticing Minnie's stare of curiosity, she left the room. Her heart pounded with agonizing intensity as she climbed the stairs.

"He can't know—not so soon! Unless Mrs. Planter telephoned him—and I don't know that. Mrs. Planter who lives in the Adamses' house?"

"I should have told him I went to town. Maybe he telephoned the Adamses. Suppose he phoned! Oh God!"

The room reeled about her and waves of nausea rose in her throat. She braced herself against the dresser with the realization of her folly. The mesh was tightening with every step.

"Call of the Wild," 20th Century's colourful film version of Jack London's immortal story of the Yukon. Gold Rush, comes to the King's Theatre next Sunday. A location unit headed by Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Jack Oakie faced danger and starvation in subzero Mount Maker, Washington, to film this Darryl Zanuck production. Gable and Oakie are seen as Thornton and Shorty, two buddies seeking gold in Alaska. They rescue beautiful Claire Blake from wolves and learn that her husband has been lost in the Arctic wastelands. She possesses details regarding a rich "lost claim" and realising that she is helpless single-handed the girl casts her lot with Thornton and Shorty. After a perilous journey the trio locate the strike, finding it unbelievably rich. Thornton and Claire have fallen hopelessly in love when Thornton's dog Buck finds Claire's husband. Thornton releases Claire and sends the couple off to file claim on the property. Others in the cast are Frank Conroy, Reginald Owen, Sidney Toler and Katherine de Mille. William Wellman directed the production from a script by Gene Fowler and Leonard Frank. Charles Rosher is credited with the magnificent photographic effects. "Call of the Wild" is presented by Joseph M. Schenck and released through United Artists.

"Annapolis Farewell"

The fair sex plays a small part in the daily life of the United States Naval Academy was the observation made by the cast during the production of "Annapolis Farewell," Paramount's dramatic pictorial narrative, featuring Sir Guy Standing, Rosalind Keith, Richard Cromwell and Tom Brown, opening to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. "In Annapolis Farewell," the graphic story of life in the Academy, women play a small part. There is only one girl in the film, portrayed by Rosalind Keith. The only time she comes into the picture is when she visits Annapolis with her chaperone Dorothy Vaughan to attend an academy dance. In this dance scene hundreds of girls are seen briefly. Rosalind is the sweetheart of Richard Cromwell in the story. Tom Brown tries to steal the girl from Richard only because he wants to take her to the hop. Evan Sir Guy Standing, who has the leading role, is the part of a retired she took. Every act of hers seemed to lead to conviction. Even her shoes were evidence against her, proof she had waded through snow when there had been no necessity.

How hard Bill's face was! Like granite. If he found out about this lie and reacted so bitterly what would he do when he learned their whole married life had been a lie?

When she descended the stairs Bill and Miss Perkins were already at the table. Bill did not rise and he served Donna in silence. The nurse, inclined to be loquacious at meal time, found it impossible to keep up a conversation, with Bill glowering at the head of the table and Donna obviously ill at ease.

The anonymous letter burned in Bill's pocket. He was torn between a desire to completely ignore it and the suspicion that it held too much truth for his happiness. If only Madeline had not lied! Where had she been if not in town? And why had she denied going there unless she had gone for some reason she did not want him to know?

Without another word he left the dining room. In fur cap, coat and high rubber boots he strode out into the storm, taking a grim satisfaction in the discomfort of trudging through drifts that made him stumble. Battling with the tearing wind, pitting his strength against the elements gave him courage to face something he knew might change the course of his life.

But there must be some proof against his wife besides the vicious words of the unknown letter writer and the lie her lips had uttered. Even if he found out that the man mentioned in the letter was in Lebanon he would not accuse Madeline. Even if he learned that she had lied this man he would not believe her untruthful. She couldn't be. Not Madeline!

There must be some explanation of what had happened but he lacked the courage to ask for it. He had intended to show Donna the letter and laugh at the whole thing, giving it the consideration such a senseless device would be, but the lie she had told made that impossible. With the suspicion growing stronger every moment that what the letter said was true, he could not hand it to Donna and say, "Isn't this a joke! As if such a thing would influence me!"

He walked on, trying to convince himself that the whole affair should be dismissed and forgotten, trying to cling to his faith in the woman he loved more than anything else in life. But at the end of an hour the doubts still lingered and he was no nearer conviction than before.

That hour was a miserable for Donna. She went with Miss Perkins to Grandfather Siddal's room and, sat there while the nurse gave the old man his supper. She talked casually but all the time her thoughts were with her husband, wondering where he had gone and what had caused his strange manner.

Later the nurse confirmed her fears. When Grandfather dozed the two women returned to the living room. Then Miss Perkins said, "Your husband was terribly worried. After he telephoned your friend and found that you hadn't been there his face was as white as a sheet."

"I should have phoned him," Donna stammered, wondering if the other suspected that she had not told Bill the truth. "When I was delayed I intended to stop there on my way back but the storm kept me in town longer than I expected."

So Bill knew she had not been near the Adamses! He had tricked her into telling a deliberate lie. Her cheeks burned with sudden resentment against him. What if she had gone to town? She had a perfect right to do so. Many wives came and went without discussing it with their husbands. For all his protestations of faith and love, Bill had jumped to the conclusion that she was doing something she shouldn't.

Her conscience had been entirely clear Donna would have confronted him and demand the reason for such a narrow attitude. Knowing she was treading the edge of a precipice, she could do nothing.

She was too restless to read, and the radio roused her nerves. She could not keep her attention on what Miss Perkins was saying, and her hands trembled too much for her to sew. She went into the kitchen and made some molasses candy, glancing every few minutes toward the clock and listening for the sound of Bill's footsteps.

When he came in she did not go to meet him. She heard him bid the nurse good night and ask if Grandfather was sleeping peacefully. Then he went up the stairs. When he did not come down again Donna realized he was not looking for her, did not care where she was.

Her reluctance to be alone with him grew stronger. It was not that she was actually afraid of the entire truth becoming known so much as that she was in a state of panic, causing her to lose perspective. She knew that, if Bill sat in judgment over a small lie, she would be reached when Mrs. Planter spoke, and she would be unreasonably suspicious, small-minded and intolerant. What difference could it make now if their marriage did go on the rocks?

bachelor officer whose household is managed by a coloured housekeeper, Louise Beavers. Any true picture of the academy must give the fair sex only minor roles.

"Thunder Mountain"

Zane Grey's newest and greatest story of rip-roaring outdoor adventure, "Thunder Mountain," showing at the Alhambra from Sunday to Tuesday, brings George O'Brien back to the screen as a two-sided virile, fighting hero of the lawless west. Adapted from the new best-seller novel by the Homer of America's plains, "Thunder Mountain" is an engrossing story of the Idaho gold rush, of a man who gambled on a woman's love and lost, but could not be downed. Barbara Fritchie is the lovely but faithless beauty in this picture. An eastern girl, she encourages her father to stake O'Brien in his search for gold, hoping to share in his fortune. O'Brien locates the mother lode, but Thunder Mountain, a district long feared by the Indians. But when he returns to get Miss Fritchie and her father, Morgan Wallace, his rival, jumps O'Brien's claim and kills his best friend. Everyone turns against O'Brien except Grace Grant, a dance hall girl, who has secretly loved him all the while. She knows that Miss Fritchie has transferred her affection to Wallace, pleads with her to keep faith with O'Brien. As the climax nears, O'Brien tries to secure his rights in the Miner's Court, but Morgan Wallace flees town. O'Brien follows him, hoping to exact revenge for his pal's murder, and when he overtakes Wallace one of the most heroic and thrilling battles the screen has ever portrayed takes place. In the climax, which brings a strange terrible death to Wallace, O'Brien learns why the Indians had long feared the mountains.

"His Greatest Gamble"

No matter what characterization, he undertakes, Richard Dix consistently delivers a sterling portrayal. His newest effort as the parental participant in a touching dad-and-daughter love in "His Greatest Gamble" is thorough, entertaining and intelligent, making for splendid screen fare. "His Greatest Gamble," an RKO-Radio Picture which opened at the Star Theatre last night, offers Dix in a role which depicts a father's turn to the right for his young daughter's sake. Sacrificing life, liberty and love to achieve his aim, he is impeded by a fifteen-year prison sentence. Under his divorced wife's tutelage, the daughter develops into a spinless debutante who allows her mother even to "shape her" love life. The father breaks his prison bars to come to his daughter's aid. With his versatility, dramatic capabilities and virile acting,

Dix provides a denouement crammed with pathos and drama. "His Greatest Gamble" brings to the screen a member of Hollywood's junior ranks whose talents will astonish screen fans. She is nine-year-old Edith Fellows who enacts the role of Dix's daughter as a child. In other supporting roles a cast chock-full of ability supports Dix in "His Greatest Gamble." Among the featured players, Bruce Cabot, Dorothy Wilson, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Shirley Grey and Leonard Carey are outstanding. John Robertson performed a masterly job in directing "His Greatest Gamble."

"The Nitwits"

Combining fast-stepping music and spine-tingling thrills with their own insane brand of hilarity "The Nitwits," Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey's newest comedy bit, showing at the King's Theatre, is said to be different from anything they have done heretofore. The elements of melodrama and musical comedy are so lavish that each could be the basis of an individual production. In keeping with the atmosphere of Tin Pan Alley, that traditional birthplace of America's popular songs located in the "50's" of New York's streets, "The Nitwits" introduces the new melodies now orchestrated over the other waves of "You Opened My Eyes," "The Black Widow Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out" and "Music in My Heart." Betty Grable, famous for her solos with Ted Fio Rito and for her "Let's Knock Knock" number in "The Gay Divorcee," Joey Ray and Joan Sanderford, of musical comedy and radio fame, and Wheeler and Woolsey offer to them their most convincing molasses and singing sequences. The murder mystery, in a melodramatic theme developed by Stuart Palmer, whose ability for concocting deft mystery is ascertained by his "Penguin" Pool Party and "Wonder on a Honey-moon." The Black Widow, a mysterious blackmailer, has been terrorizing the city, numbering Miss Grable's boss, a song publishing magnate, among his victims. Betty is accused because she is found with the murder weapon. Now Wheeler and Woolsey loosen their most scorching molasses, but are baffled by the many suspects, the wife who is jealous of the secretary, the company auditor who has juggled accounts, and a song writer who believes the company is absorbing his royalties. The clue-trail the audience follows, and in their spickatonic antics, stumbe only the solution. "The Nitwits," RKO-Radio Picture, serves to return Evelyn Brent to the screen after a two-year absence. Other featured parts are played by Fred Keating and Erik Rhodes. George Stevens directed from a scenario by Fred Guise and Al Bone.

"The Glass Key"

A Dashiell Hammett story, by the author of "The Thin Man," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is "The Glass Key" starring George Raft. Political manoeuvring, love intrigue and an enthralling murder mystery are the story elements of this picture. Raft the star acts the political henchman of Edward Arnold, supporting Charles Richman for Senator. Is in love with his daughter Claire Dodd. Richman's son is murdered after he has an argument with Arnold, and the latter's political enemies immediately start a campaign to fix the responsibility for the murder on him. Raft pretends to be estranged from his boss, cultivates his enemies and gains their confidence. Although he dares death to get it, he finally uncovers the secret of the murder in a thrilling climax. Rosalind Keith, a screen newcomer, is cast opposite George Raft. Frank Castle directed "The Glass Key."

CORRESPONDENCE

Traffic Problems

Hongkong Telegraph)

Sir,—We have had our "Safety First" campaign, and it would therefore appear pertinent to make suggestions which might assist the even flow of traffic. I would refer especially to the intersections of Pedder Street with Des Voeux Road, Queen's Road, and the Praya.

It is a traffic regulation that a vehicle may always bear left, even against a red traffic light, and in most cases there is no reason why this should not be done. It is, however, a very dangerous practice at the Des Voeux Road-Pedder Street intersection. A pedestrian, crossing from the Union to the Gloucester Buildings, when the red light is against Des Voeux Road traffic, should be reasonably safe. This is far from being so. He is liable to be hit in the back by traffic coming from Blake Pier, and proceeding eastward to Quater or Des Voeux Roads, particularly by buses, which normally take this corner at considerable speed. Again, he is liable to be hit in the side by traffic proceeding along Pedder Street from Queen's Road and turning round the traffic automatic signal eastwards. Actually it is easier for a pedestrian to use this crossing when the green light favours Des Voeux Road traffic, for then he only has to watch traffic in one direction at a time, though there is still a chance of being hit in the back by a No. 3 or 3A, bus!

At the Queen's Road end of Pedder Street the chief obstruction to traffic is—the traffic officer! He has his back to Pedder Street traffic, and a very imperfect view of that proceeding along Queen's Road. In either direction, hence every vehicle has to sound its horn to attract his attention, causing a veritable babel at times. Likewise, the officer has no view of the pedestrian crossing immediately behind him. If he were stationed on the opposite pavement, outside "Shell House," he would have a clear view of traffic in all directions, and if a tower were provided, on the lines of those used in Shanghai for intersections, his usefulness would be greatly increased.

At present, traffic proceeding up Pedder Street, and wishing to turn round, has to wait a lot of time, as it is often a hazardous matter crossing, owing to the Connaught statue being used as a turnabout. Could not Pedder Street traffic turn round immediately in rear of the taxi rank? This also would obviate holding up Praya traffic, as at present, to enable turn-rounds to be made.

In this connection, why is Blake Pier itself the terminus of the bus routes? Granted there is the space for standing, but it is assumed that passengers normally board buses from launches? Actually 90 per cent. at least come from the town, and have to make the difficult and really unnecessary crossing of the Praya—a particularly bad one in wet weather. Could not some other arrangement be made, say buses standing at the head of Chater Road and proceeding down it to Statue Square before branching off to their various routes?

Finally, bus fares are not inexpensive and the passengers are entitled to some consideration. Yet on both sides of the harbour, in the rush hours, buses are habitually crowded with twice their legal capacity. This is really dangerous, particularly on such routes as those traversing Garden Road. Must we wait for a bad accident, with several casualties, before action is taken?

St. Andrew's Church

Sir,—Would you be good enough to allow me to bring to the notice of your readers, on the eve of St. Andrew's Day, the special effort we are making this year to raise money at St. Andrew's, Kowloon?

It has been our custom at this Church for several years past to hold a Fete, Pageant or Bazaar to help us meet our expenses, but this year we have decided to have a Day of Prayer and Gifts instead. There are friends and well-wishers of the Church all over the Colony who in years gone by have been connected with it, who may like to know of the special effort we are making this year and send us a donation.

The Church, as is well known, gives itself not only to religious work, but to much social and benevolent work too for the sake of the community at large, and it must raise $4,000 this year to meet its commitments, which, owing to unforeseen and abnormal expenditures, largely due to the dissipation of the

MOTOR MISHAP SEQUEL

WRONG NAME GIVEN IN REPORT

A sequel to an accident in Johnston Road on October 27 was the appearance before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, of two men, Fan Chi-chin and Jau Wai-ting.

The first defendant was summoned for driving private car No. 1321 without an appropriate licence, and the second defendant for having transferred his licence to the first defendant.

Traffic Inspector McInnis said that on October 27 a woman was knocked down in Johnston Road and was detained in hospital for two days. The first defendant went to the Wanchai Police Station and reported the accident. He produced a licence in the name of Jau Wai-ting, and also made a statement in that name. The car No. 1321, at a later date failed to stop when requested to do so by a police officer, and on enquiry, the second defendant claimed the licence as his, and it was found the licence was in his name. He was not driving the car on the day of the accident. At first he told the police that the first defendant had stolen his licence, but later it was found he had transferred his licence. It was a barefaced manner in which the first defendant had reported the accident in the name of the second defendant.

Traffic Inspector Alexander stated that the question of photographs being put on the licences of private drivers was being considered by the Inspector General of Police.

Mr. Schofield imposed a fine of $20 on the first defendant, and $25 on the second defendant.
